

A stack of old, rolled-up newspapers, likely from the early 20th century, showing various headlines in Italian. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some text visible on the outer edges of the rolls. The text includes phrases like "dente, era nell'ordine (...)", "mento non sono il gesto di Bara-", "Ma ci sarà quello che trascinerà", "precisamente i", "zione di coraggio e civiltà", "Raffa e Fontana", and "alle pagine 7 e 8".

The Truth about Hollywood-Behind the Scenes

How the Film Studio City and Its People Closely Resemble Places of Equal Size and Folk Elsewhere—Lurid
Reports of Drugs, Liquor and Wild Parties
Traced to Their Source

To trace the truth of this tale was a newspaper man. He said he had attended the party and had seen the incident. But a reporter of Hollywood who has watched the stars head up and the doors and has kept pretty close tabs on them and their habits said to me: "I wish you'd tell me who this newspaper man is and I'll tell you and tell you that he's a movie buff. The reporter was not interested in China. He went to movie and was 1000 in a poker game."

"There really are a good many drug addicts in the motion picture crowd," an agent of the Department of Justice told me, "but most of them are among the low class, criminal, crooks, and the extra people who are not working steadily but call themselves actors. However, the stars have been pretty respectable. And Cadena, 30, ex-soldier, shot Pablita Jiminez, beautiful 18-year-old senorita, while she lay asleep in her bed the afternoon of April 14. For half an hour after he had fired three shots into the girl's body, Cadena stood at the foot of the bed with the smoking revolver in his hand, muttering he had done nothing. Pablita's sister, paralyzed with horror, witnessed the strange death vigil. When arrested Marihuana is not the well known loco weed, although sometimes given that name. The leaves, small stems and flowers of the plant are dried, crumbled into pieces like tobacco, and smoked in cigarettes. It strongly resembles green tea when dried.

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

How Only Two or Three States Have Statutes Aimed at the Insidious Mexican Hasheesh Which Wrecks the Lives of Its Victims Even More Quickly Than Cocaine, Heroin or Opium

THE OGDEN STANDARD-EXAMINER SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 24, 1922

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

How Only Two or Three States Have Statutes Aimed at the Insidious Mexican Hasheesh Which Wrecks the Lives of Its Victims Even More Quickly Than Cocaine, Heroin or Opium

FRANZ STUCK'S SYMBOLIC PAINTING OF THE UNDERWORLD'S HORRORS, TO WHICH A NEW AND DREADFUL ONE IS NOW ADDED BY THE SPREAD OF THE MARIJUANA HABIT.

WHEN the lawmakers of Congress and the various state legislatures framed the statutes designed to end the traffic in habit-forming drugs they thought they had made them comprehensive enough to include every narcotic known to man.

But now it has been discovered that, so far as the national laws and those of all except two or three of the states are concerned, they overlooked one of the wickedest of drugs—one that in many ways more insidious in its habit and more ruinous in its effects than cocaine, heroin, opium, morphine or any of the others.

The wicked drug the lawmakers forgot is marihuana, the Mexican variety of Cannabis indica, or Indian hemp, commonly known as hasheesh. In the Orient hasheesh has been used for thousands of years. There it is rolled into pills and swallowed, or mixed with sugar and eaten like candy.

The Mexicans, however, have a different way of drugging themselves with marihuana and getting its extraordinary effects. They break off the tops of the plant, crumble them, up like tobacco and roll them into cigarettes.

It is in the form of cigarettes that marihuana is now coming into widespread use in this country, and because the little paper-wrapped rolls of the drug look so much like an ordinary tobacco cigarette the traffic is then in a likely to prove hard to stamp out even after the necessary laws are enacted.

In America these marihuana cigarettes are called either "flying cigarettes" or "marihuana cigarettes."

like nervousness and restlessness of speech.

The Mexican government, recognizing the seriousness of the situation, passed some years ago a law forbidding the cultivation of the hemp plant, but in spite of the stringent edict and the swift and drastic punishment imposed, it is still extensively grown. This, with the large quantities of wild plants cultivated, furnishes a supply ample enough for many thousands of users.

Most of the drug finds its way into the United States across the Rio Grande River and Lower California border. Some of the crop-lifters in southern Mexico is smuggled into our ports—principally New York—by sailors trading at Mexican ports from where it is disseminated.

The story of two American college girls who were recently entangled in the coils of this soul-destroying narcotic is a good example of how "flying cigarettes" or "marihuana cigarettes" work.

A jar of the powdered leaves of marihuana, seized by the New York police; and (on the right) cigarettes made from the leaves always the same. After three or four puffs the beginner's mind becomes confused. There is, at first, a harmless sort of mental exhilaration. All the worries and sordidness in the user's life fade away. He finds himself floating through space as if on a cloud and doing everything, in fancy, that he ever wanted to do.

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

It is in the form of cigarettes that marihuana is now coming into wide-spread use in this country, and because the little paper-wrapped rolls of the drug look so much like an ordinary tobacco cigarette the traffic in them is likely to prove hard to stamp out even after the necessary laws are enacted.

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

The sudden popularity of marihuana among narcotic addicts was also largely due to the activities of Dr. Simon's staff in cutting off supplies of other drugs. Addicts recognized, too, that they could partake of the new dope in the form of cigarettes with little risk of detection, provided, of course, they did not take doses strong enough to make them pass into a coma. It is

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

No work is more worthy of the commendation of all good citizens than that which the police of New York and other large cities are doing to stamp out the drug traffic. It is a task fraught with the greatest difficulties, for the business of dope smuggling is well organized and shrewdly managed, and the addicts will run almost any risk to keep supplied with their favorite drug.

SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 24, 1922

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

Although the dope habit is one of the chief vices that make the underworld so dreadful it is by no means confined to the criminal and derelict classes. In spite of the stringent laws and the eternal vigilance of the police an increasing number of addicts are being found in the most refined and cultured walks of life.

The One Wicked Drug the Lawmakers Forgot

A pathetic instance of slavery to drugs was revealed in a London police court only a few days ago. Miss Cissie Loftus, the beautiful and talented actress who has so often appeared in this country and been much admired here, was arraigned on a charge of having drugs in her possession. She was released on suspended sentence on her promising to undergo treatment for the habit.

MEXICO CITY, December 29 (AP) —

DRUG PLANT OUTLAWED.
Marihuana leaves, smoked in cigarettes, produce murderous delirium.
Its addicts often become insane.
Scientists say its effects are perhaps more terrible than those of any intoxicant or other drug.

A stack of old, rolled-up newspapers, likely from the year 1927, is shown in a sepia-toned, slightly desaturated image. The newspapers are stacked horizontally, with their edges and folds creating a rhythmic, wavy pattern. The text '1927 NEWSPAPERS' is overlaid in a large, white, serif font, centered horizontally and slightly lower in the frame. Some headlines are visible on the edges of the papers, including 'dente, era nell'ordine (...)', 'mento non sono il gesto di Bara-', 'Ma ci sarà quello che trascinerà', 'precisamente i', 'zione di coraggio e civiltà', 'Raffa e Fontana', and 'alle pagine 7 e 8'.

A stack of old, rolled-up newspapers, likely from the 1930s, showing various headlines in Italian. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some text visible on the outer edges of the rolls. The text includes phrases like "dente, era nell'ordine (...)", "mento non sono il gesto di Bara-", "Ma ci sarà quello che trascinerà", "precisamente i", "zione di coraggio e civiltà", "Raffa e Fontana", and "alle pagine 7 e 8".

ALLEGED ALASKA CANNERY BOSSES EXPOSE DOPE RING

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb., 13, (AP)—
Two state narcotic agents, posing as labor bosses on Alaska cannery ships, struck a blow at what they assert as a drug ring trafficking in the drug marijuana, arresting two men when they delivered the first installment supply of the drug for which the agents allege they contracted.
