Kiley Corcoran grew up in Andover, Massachusetts where her love of dance and theater began at Andover School of Ballet. Corcoran then studied under Jeannette Neill and her pre-professional dance company, Boston Youth Moves, continuing her education in ballet, jazz, tap, and Horton modern dance technique. There, she worked with Jim Viera, Jeannette Neill, and guest artists such as Kirven Douthit-Boyd and Matt Anctil. Corcoran has also trained at the Alvin Ailey Summer Intensive, Rockettes Summer Intensive, and the American Dance Festival. She graduated with her BFA in Dance from The University of The Arts, where she performed works by Milton Myers, Sidra Bell, Paul Matteson, Jesse Zaritt and Katie Swords Thurman. Corcoran currently resides in New York City and is ecstatic to come back to ASB where her training began!
