

Dr. Anil Vasudevan is a Clinician Researcher with dual role of Pediatric Nephrologist and Basic Science Researcher. He is currently Professor and Head , Dept of Pediatric Nephrology, St. Johns' medical College Hospital, Bengaluru and Adjunct Faculty, Div of Molecular Medicine, St. John's Research Institute, Bengaluru.

His research combines laboratory based work, human samples and detailed clinical information of the subjects to understand the genetic and molecular basis of renal development and renal diseases in children [Neohrotic Syndrome, CAKUT, Tubulopathy]. He also focuses on applied research in Acute Kidney Injury in critically ill children.

A 1000 square feet of wet-lab space at St. John's Research Institute, located in the hospital campus dedicated to research in nephrology under the direct supervision of Dr. Vasudevan with facilities for PCR, Real time PCR, Cell culture and Immunofluorescence imaging and access to Bio-repository for long-term storage of biological samples.

Dr. Vasudevan is also a recipient of number of research grants from Canadian Institute of Health Research, Medical Research Council, UK, Department of Biotechnology, Indian Council of Medical Research, Council of Scientific and Industrial Research.

Besides being a teacher for DM [Pediatric Nephrology] , post graduates and under-graduates, is also a guide for 3 PhD students. He also mentor undergraduates and postgraduates in various research studies.

Dr. Vasudevan is also a member [Expert] of PhD committee of Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences, Bengaluru, JIPMER , Puducherry, St. John's Research Institute, Bengaluru and also a member of Board of Studies, NIMHANS, Bengaluru. He is member of of Curriculum Committee [Pediatric Nephrology], Medical Council of India, Delhi