The Oregon Ravens Women's Tackle Football Team To Launch Flag Football Team In 2024

Portland, OR – The Women's National Football Conference (WNFC), a trailblazer in promoting women's football, proudly announced the formation of its Flag Football League on October 17th, 2023, tailored exclusively for women. As a result, the Oregon Ravens are preparing and recruiting to develop a flag football team within the WNFC. This groundbreaking initiative aligns with Oregon Raven's unwavering commitment to advancing women's sports and fostering a vibrant, equitable football community.

As the momentum for women's football continues to build globally, The Oregon Ravens recognize the importance of diversifying playing opportunities. The decision to launch a Women's Flag Football Division & Team aligns with the growing popularity of flag football, which is now featured in the upcoming 2028 Summer Olympics.

Key Features of Ravens's Women's Flag Football League include:

Inclusive Participation: Embracing players of all skill levels in ages 18 and over, the newly forming flag football team provides a platform for women to showcase their agility, strength and football abilities.

Empowering Women in Sports: The Oregon Ravens are dedicated to empowering women through sports. The aim of this team is to continue to break barriers and challenge stereotypes, promoting women's athleticism and skill on the football field.

Player Development: The Women's Flag Football League is not just a competition; it's a pathway for player development and a platform for women to hone their skills, fostering a new class of female football stars.

The Oregon Ravens invite the media, women's football advocates, and the community to join us in celebrating this momentous occasion. The WNFC and Oregon Ravens will kick off with an exhibition season in the Spring of 2024 alongside the regularly scheduled tackle season, with regional matches.
