Got Her Back & Virtual Coaching Clinic

The Oregon Ravens, in partnership with Got Her Back and Dove, have updated the schedule for our upcoming body confidence initiative and football camp. Please note the revised dates for both the virtual coach's clinic and the on-field camp below.

On-Field Action: Girls Football Camp (New Date)

Date: September 20, 2026

Time: 10:00am-1:00pm

Location: Sherwood High School (18800 SW Haide Rd, Sherwood, OR 97140)

Details: Open to girls ages 6 to 18

Participants will sharpen their fundamentals through combine drills, position-specific training, and competition periods led by top professional flag and tackle football players, alongside empowering breakout discussions to build lasting self-assurance.

Building Body-Confident Cultures: Virtual Coaching Clinic (New Date)

Date: November 10, 2026

Time: 6:00pm-7:00pm

Format: Virtual Session

Coaches, parents, teachers, and mentors are invited to attend this interactive session featuring Dove's Body Confident Sport curriculum. Adult leaders will gain practical, actionable tools to cultivate positive team environments focused on self-assurance and keeping young female athletes active in sports.

Northwest Feud Fired Up in Miami:

Ravens GM John La Rosa and Majestics Head Coach Joey Martinez Clash Over Top Talent at WNFC Combine

MIAMI, Florida — The Pacific Northwest's fiercest football feud didn't wait for kickoff to restart. Oregon Ravens General Manager John La Rosa and Seattle Majestics Head Coach Joey Martinez landed in South Florida for the Women's National Football Conference (WNFC) Combine, bringing their bitter regional rivalry straight to the national recruiting stage.

With the 2027 WNFC season on the horizon, the trip to Miami is less about routine scouting and more about a high-stakes arms race between two front offices determined to outmaneuver one another for the nation's premier football talent.

Battle on the Sidelines

The two-day combine puts top prospects through grueling evaluations, from timed 40-yard dashes and agility drills to live positional work. But with La Rosa and Martinez sharing the same sidelines, every drill has turned into a direct recruiting battle.

For Oregon and Seattle, the stakes couldn't be higher. With both franchises drawing from overlapping regional interests, every player evaluation in Miami represents a potential swing in the Pacific Northwest balance of power.

"To build a championship contender, you have to go where the talent is," said GM John La Rosa during evaluations. "Being on the ground in Miami allows us to assess physical metrics and football IQ up close as we construct our 2027 roster. In the Pacific Northwest, crowns aren't inherited—they're ripped away on every down, and this season, the Oregon Ravens are coming to dethrone royalty."

The jab didn't go unanswered on the sidelines.

"Those guys can go flock themselves," stated Martinez, pun intended, referring to dominating recruitment over the Ravens and remaining the premier franchise in the Pacific Northwest.

Setting the Tone for 2027

The presence of both leadership groups on the sidelines in South Florida adds an extra layer of intrigue to the national combine. While scouting personnel routinely share evaluation spaces, the established rivalry between Oregon and Seattle ensures that every contract offer will be heavily contested.

With national tryouts and free-agency periods approaching, the evaluations conducted by La Rosa and Martinez over the weekend will directly influence the balance of power in the Northwest when the 2027 WNFC season kicks off.

One Day Can Change Everything: 2026 WNFC National Tryout Day

Are you ready to earn your wings and compete at the highest level of women's tackle football? The Oregon Ravens are officially gearing up for the 2027 season, and we are looking for dedicated athletes who want to earn a position on our 2027 roster.

On Saturday, October 10, 2026, the Ravens will participate in the seventh annual WNFC National Tryout Day, giving local athletes a direct path to showcase their skills and earn a contract for the upcoming campaign.

What to Expect on Tryout Day:

Athletic Testing: Standardized combine evaluations, including the 40-yard dash, short shuttle, and vertical jump.

Position Drills: Individual and group workouts evaluated directly by Head Coach Robby Scharf and the coaching staff.

Football Evaluation: On-field movement and competitive drills designed to test football IQ and athletic potential.

No prior football experience is required to try out—just high-level athletic drive, discipline, and the determination to compete.

Please note: Tryouts are strictly reserved for individuals actively interested in trying out for a position as a 2027 roster player.

2027 Pre-Tryout OTAS & Field Workouts

The Oregon Ravens are officially gearing up for the 2027 Women's National Football Conference (WNFC) season, and the search for dedicated, driven, and competitive athletes is underway. To prepare prospective talent for the physical and mental demands of high-level tackle football, the franchise is hosting a series of Organized Team Activities (OTAs) and Pre-Tryout Field Workouts.

Whether you are a seasoned crossover athlete from college sports or stepping onto the gridiron for the very first time, these pre-tryout sessions are designed to give you a head start ahead of official team selections.

What to Expect at Field Workouts

Led directly by Head Coach Robby Scharf and the Ravens veteran coaching staff, these two-hour intensive workouts offer a structured look into the team's culture, training standards, and playbook philosophy. Participants will go through a comprehensive workout program focused on:

Agility & Footwork Drills: Speed ladder work, cone drills, and high-intensity footwork mechanics to elevate quickness and reaction times.

Agility & Footwork: Speed ladders, cone drills, and mechanics to boost quickness and reaction times.

Agility & Footwork: Speed ladders, cone drills, and mechanics to boost quickness and reaction times.

Position-Specific Skills: Targeted coaching on route running, ball-handling, tackling, coverage, and trench play.

Conditioning & Movement: Football-specific endurance training to build game-ready stamina for Tryout Day.

Attending OTAs gives prospective players a unique opportunity to interact with returning veteran athletes and the front-office leadership team. You'll gain firsthand insight into what it takes to balance elite athletic performance with the organizational commitments required of a WNFC roster player.

Important Participation Notice: Please note: These sessions are strictly reserved for individuals actively interested in trying out and earning a position as a 2027 roster player.
