The Truth About Women's Health

For generations, women's health conversations have been incomplete.

Pain Dismissed

Hormones Misunderstood

Menopause Ignored

Mental Load Invisible

Vastly Under-researched

HER Health Summit creates a space where women, and the men who care about them, finally speak honestly about the realities of women's bodies, health, aging, and wellbeing.

This is not just a wellness event. It is a movement to elevate the conversation around women's health while supporting organizations working to improve women's lives.

Why This Summit Matters Now

Women’s health research remains dramatically underfunded and misunderstood. Millions of women experience health challenges that are overlooked, misdiagnosed, or minimized. At the same time, breakthroughs in medicine, longevity science, and holistic wellness are transforming how women can care for their bodies.

Most women-focused events exclude men. At the HER Health Summit, we embrace men as a necessary part of the conversation, so they can learn, share their perspective, and be a necessary part of the solution.

Together, the summit advances both the conversation around women's health and the organizations working to improve women's lives.
