FARM OF THE MONTH

Dickson Family Farms isn't just a name, they are fourth generation farmers with great-grandparents, grandparents, parents, and grandchildren all involved in farming operations and fruit sales. Sustainability, regeneration, organic, and zero waste are terms often thrown around in farming these days. At Dickinson Family Farms, their goal is to be good stewards of the land by farming responsibly and giving back to the local community. Anything not sold or given to food ministries is composted and used to enhance the soil's microbes and carbon, provide nutrition for the trees, fortify the soil against erosion, and improve water retention. In addition to our vision for excellent agricultural services, another dream has come to life over the past couple of years through our expansion into organic produce processing and distribution. In the Fall of 2020, our family built both the processing warehouse and business office on the farm property. Each harvest of fresh produce is hand-picked from local growers, carefully inspected, and re-packaged for deliveries nationwide.
