

Natural Area Guardians

Who We Are

The Whiteside County Natural Area Guardians, formed as a sub-committee of the Whiteside County Soil and Water Conservation District in 1988, is a group of volunteers dedicated to the preservation, restoration, and management of the remaining natural areas and their flora and fauna in Whiteside County.

The NAGs meet in Morrison on the second Thursday of each month. Both “hands on” members and those who contribute moral and monetary support are vital to the group.

The ability to view a delicate shooting star in bloom or a vast sea of pale purple coneflowers is perhaps one of the most precious legacies that can be passed on to our grandchildren. Join us and become part of a group that strives to “make a difference.”
