Meet Fudge!

Fudge may have arrived a little later than the rest of the Ice Cream litter, but you'd never know it now. This little guy has settled into foster care beautifully and has been busy making friends, exploring, and soaking up all the love he can get!

He's a happy pup who enjoys being around people and is always excited to see what's going on around him. He's playful, affectionate, and already showing off plenty of personality as he grows.

Like any young puppy, Fudge is still learning the ropes, but he's off to a great start and ready to continue growing alongside a family of his very own.

We think this sweet boy is going to make an amazing addition to one lucky home. If you think that could be yours, apply today!
