OUR WEEKLY GUIDE RETURNS!

First, our apologies for the recent "hiatus" of our newsletter. Due to some unexpected changes with the marketing service we use to produce this newsletter, coupled with some other challenges, we had to put a hold on producing these guides. Many of you wrote us with fears that something happened to the channel, but other than a recent technical issue (see below), we are still streaming and expect to be bringing you the finest folk 24/7 for years to come!

TECHNICAL UPDATE

A few weeks back, Folk Music Notebook was sporadically knocked off the air for a few hours over the span of 4 days. As our "downtime" over the past 7 years has been minimal, this issue caught our tech team by surprise. The culprit turned out to be a pesky server that outlived its service life. It has been replaced and the problem resolved.

With the new server in place, we took the opportunity to "upgrade" our livestream. We are now streaming at 320kpbs and a new audio processor with an improved automatic gain control to give a more consistent output plus a limiter to catch volume peaks and avoid audio distortion.

Our tests have shown a positive response to the improvement. However, if you are experiencing any unusual issues that may have just cropped up, please let us know. Write to ron@folkmusicnotebook.com. Be sure to describe the issue, where you are listening from, and what device you are using to hear us - if you are listening on a computer, please tell us what browser you are using (Chrome, Edge, Firefox, etc.)

There are also a few internal tech upgrades that will be transparent to the listener, but it greatly improves our programming capabilities and scheduling functions.

We are doing our best to not only give you the finest folk 24 hours a day, but also to give you exceptional quality - both on the technical and programming side!

This week: "Psych Folk, Part 1"

The distinctive sound of the psychedelic era was not just a component of the rock music of the period; there was a good bit of folk music which was influenced by the times. That sound did not end with advent of the 1970s and lives on in the work of many artists today. On the next two editions of SORM, we look back to that magical period and forward to today. This week we'll hear some classic music from Bob Dylan, Jefferson Airplane and Paul Siebel, among others. We'll also hear some contemporary players like In Gowan Ring, Helen Dorothy and The Creaking Tree String Quartet. A little mind-bending music ... this week on The Sing Out! Radio Magazine.

Host Tom Druckenmiller.

Guests: NATALIE CRESSMAN & IAN FAQUINI

Describing Natalie Cressman and Ian Faquini as a duo is accurate—but incomplete. Together, they create a richly expressive musical world that blends jazz, Brazilian song, impressionistic harmony, and sophisticated pop songwriting into something truly singular. Cressman’s world-class trombone and luminous, deeply empathetic voice meet Faquini’s masterful guitar work and compositions, drawing from MPB (música popular brasileira), jazz, and beyond. Their music features lyrics in Portuguese, French, and English, wrapped in sumptuous two-part harmonies that feel far bigger than a duo—yet perfectly at home in an intimate listening room.

A performance recorded on the stage of Caffe Lena in Saratoga Springs, New York - the longest continuously operating folk music venue in the United States.
