GIVING THANKS

As many of us here in the United States make plans to gather together with family and friends for the annual Thanksgiving holiday, I want to take this opportunity to wish everyone a happy and healthy holiday season, and also to thank everyone who has contributed to our Folk Music Notebook "Tip Jar". As I write this, we are about $4K away from meeting our goal which will help us pay the bills and rights fees for streaming in 2027.

In addition to the generous tips we've received, I am also grateful to all those who advertise on the channel, our hard working hosts who continue to create outstanding programs, all the artists whose music we are honored to share 24/7, and to all of you who choose to tune in.

Last weekend we were able to livestream 3 nights of showcases from the Northeast Regional Folk Alliance (NERFA) for our YouTube channel. It is because of support from folks like you that we are able to do events like this.

If you are in a position to help us in our mission, our tip jar can be located at www.gofundme.com/FMNtips.

Folk Music Notebook is looking forward to the months ahead, and we are thankful to have you join us on this journey through the diverse world of folk music!

Sincerely,

Ron Olesko
Director, Folk Music Notebook

MOSTLY FOLK

Monday at 8pm ET / 5pm PT
with an encore Tuesday at 6am ET / 3am PT

Guest: LONG HAUL PAUL

Long Haul Paul was born and raised in Muncie, Indiana. His father was the CEO of the twelfth largest meat packing company in the United States. While working summers in the family business as a "pump boy," fueling, washing, and parking trucks for the company fleet, Paul, "just kinda fell in love with trucks." Much to his parents disappointment, he dropped out of college, eventually choosing the life of a long haul trucker.

Late in his life, during a recording pilgrimage to FAME Studios in Muscle Shoals, Alabama, which was sponsored by his daughter Audrey, Long Haul Paul met session legend and producer Travis Wammack, who would come to dub the gear jammer "a modern day Bob Dylan." A collaboration ensued, which would yield a record deal for the grizzled 57 year old with the truck stop label Laughing Hyena Records.

Host: Artie Martello
