You all said you were pastors, didn't you? Sometimes, the season of building, you are in this place. Sometimes the building stage of a church and a ministry is the most tedious. And you're in the middle of that even now. It's been going on for quite a while too.

I've noticed just with working with pastors and different things that those who require more time to build usually is because the weight of that building is going to be heavier than others.

And so the things He's told you about, how the church will be, will be.

And you need not think that the building process is the building itself. It will be, it will be, I hear Him say, it will be, it will be, it will be even as, it will be even as I promised you, it will be even as I led you, it will be even as I told you it will be. It will be, it will be.

So you have to...I see your hands. It's almost as if you are laying it brick by brick and in many situations you are laying that alone. So you're mixing the concrete, you're slapping it on and you're putting the brick on.

But there is divine strength and there is divine help and there is a divine plan and there is divine paths, yeah, a master plan, yeah, building, building, building.
