

HEALING VIBES COLLECTIVE

ELECTRONIC PRESS KIT | CURRENT RELEASE: ART OF A DREAM

“I want my music to feel like walking through a painting.”

“Art of a Dream” is a 5:15 evolving instrumental blending cinematic downtempo, New Age influences, world-inspired textures, and organic percussion. Built around a 90 BPM pulse, the piece moves from spacious, dreamlike passages into fuller rhythmic sections, with changing instrumental colors, melodic interplay, and emotional shifts unfolding throughout.

THE STORY BEHIND THE SONG

“Art of a Dream” was composed as an evolving instrumental journey rather than a piece that stays in one emotional or rhythmic space. It opens with a restrained pulse and spacious melodic material, then moves through changing combinations of cello, flutes, clarinets, brass, electric guitar, handpan, organic percussion, bells, synth textures, bass quenacho, and resonant bowl tones.

The arrangement is deliberately sectional: intimate passages give way to fuller rhythmic moments, while recurring textures help the track remain cohesive. That movement is central to the composition - the listener can enter at different points and hear a different character, yet the sections still belong to one continuous piece.

“Music first, healing embedded.”

ABOUT HEALING VIBES COLLECTIVE

Healing Vibes Collective is the cinematic instrumental project led by Florida-based composer, producer, recording engineer, and multi-instrumentalist Pam Green. Drawing on more than four decades of experience in rock, jazz, folk, and New Age composition, Green creates music centered on melody, atmosphere, rhythm, and emotional movement.

The project blends acoustic-sounding and electronic textures with expressive guitars, keyboards, percussion, orchestral timbres, and resonant bowls. Wellness-related elements are treated as part of the artistic sound palette; HVC does not present its music as medical treatment or make therapeutic claims.

POSITIONING

LISTENING CONTEXT Reflective listening, creative work, walking, calm focus, scenic driving, mindful movement, and immersive headphone listening.	AUDIENCE Listeners drawn to cinematic downtempo, New Age, atmospheric instrumental, organic electronic, world-influenced, neo-classical, and psychill-adjacent music.

WHAT'S NEXT

Healing Vibes Collective is developing a Special Edition of “Art of a Dream,” followed by new material moving further into atmospheric electronic and downtempo territory while retaining HVC’s melodic and organic instrumental character.

SOUND & TUNING

“Art of a Dream” combines acoustic, electronic, orchestral, and world-inspired sounds with particular attention to tone, resonance, and texture. Cello, flutes, clarinets, brass, electric guitar, handpan, synth textures, bells, bass quenacho, and a 396 Hz singing bowl move through changing combinations as the arrangement develops from spacious passages into fuller rhythmic sections, with marimba appearing in the outro percussion section. The 396 Hz bowl is used for its distinctive pitch and resonant character as part of the composition’s artistic palette, without making medical or therapeutic claims.
