

Prison Riot Radio is a platform that was created for the incarcerated, formerly incarcerated and those impacted by incarceration, to have a voice or to amplify the one they already have.

Through our platform we interview the wrongfully convicted, over sentenced, revolutionaries, poets, authors, musicians, writers, clothing designers, business owners and the like to help them get their voices heard and to spread awareness about what happened in their cases and for those with talents, we promote them for free.

We have so far done over 200 interviews, promotions and petitions combined.

We also assist with the little things, such as, filling out applications, doing internet searches on the incarcerated persons' behalf, send emails, reach out to loved ones, teach loved ones how to assist their incarcerated person and we have even helped to complete two audio books.

We hope to continue to grow and to be able to assist more and more states and people who need a platform that is trying to help and not help themselves.
