

Z's Theory of Government Service Provision

Doing the “right thing” in government – hitting the sweet spot of citizen satisfaction in public services – is a matter of concentrating on what you’re doing while at the same time remembering the broader context. You can’t hit the bullseye unless you scan the entire target and use each band to focus and refocus your attention as you aim.