McElhaney Endorsed by Buffalo Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO

Orchard Park, NY — The McElhaney for Town Council campaign today announced that Braidon McElhaney has earned the endorsement of the Buffalo Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, a leading voice for working families across Western New York.

"I am deeply honored to receive the trust and endorsement of the Buffalo Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO," said Braidon McElhaney, candidate for Orchard Park Town Council. "I grew up in a working-class family, and I'm running to make local government work for the people who keep our community running—nurses, tradespeople, teachers, public workers, and everyone who punches in day after day. I'll fight for fair wages, safe job sites, and responsible development that creates good local jobs."

McElhaney emphasized that the endorsement aligns with his campaign priorities:

- Smart, job-creating development that protects neighborhoods and grows the tax base responsibly.
- Transparency and accountability in Town Hall spending and contracting.
- Public safety and infrastructure investments that support workers and local businesses.

"This endorsement isn't just a vote of confidence—it's a commitment to partnership," McElhaney added. "I look forward to working with union members and all residents to build a stronger, fairer Orchard Park."

The endorsement adds to growing momentum for McElhaney's campaign as voters seek proven advocates for working families and small businesses at the local level.
