

person I was, and in doing so, I began to step into the person I'm meant to become. I'm finding joy again. I've learned to live in the moment, to feel deeply, and to stop expecting anything from anyone. I still sometimes ask, "Why me?" But I no longer stay stuck there.

Support from Lipodystrophy United has been life changing. Connecting with people who truly understand has made all the difference. And just as importantly, I now have a medical team that cares. Not just treats me, but genuinely cares. That's a blessing I never take for granted.

The hardest part of my journey was admitting I had become a victim to my own health. I was anxious, angry, and lost. But I had to stop letting my illness control me. I had to choose to fight back.

LU Booth and Poster Presentation at the National Lipid Association

The National Lipid Association's (NLA) 2025 Annual Scientific Sessions will be held from May 29 to June 1, 2025. This conference gathers experts to discuss the latest developments in lipidology.

LU Booth and Poster Presentation at ENDO

The Endocrine Society's (ENDO) 2025 Annual Meeting will be held from July 12 to 15th, 2025, in San Francisco, California. This conference brings together leading experts in endocrinology to explore the latest advances in hormone science and