Proud to Serve the Government & Private Sector

We understand your challenges and can help your team!

Bonfire Training (formerly PhonePRO), has been a Learning and Workforce Development industry leader for over 30 years and has a robust list of clients throughout many industries. From coaching leaders and reenergizing management teams, to empowering company frontline and field staff to be the best communicators in their business, our firm belief is that effective communication builds upon the success of any company, in any industry.

With training that is relevant and interactive, we focus on comprehension and retention during all training and coaching sessions in order to advance the transfer of learning into the workplace. Your team will learn new ways of handling old problems that are common to your industry, with practical skills they can use immediately after training.

Bonfire has extensive experience in creating enterprise-wide development initiatives at all levels. We have the "bench strength" to staff large projects, and have developed and completed several comprehensive training programs for long-term clients.

Give us a call! You will experience high quality training at all levels, and we'll meet your training budget needs within your timeline!
