To whosoever it may concern

I take immense pleasure in congratulating the author Dr. K. Srikala for her Herculean efforts in initiating and bringing out the issues of Science shore for a year and marching towards the first anniversary of the journal. Any success is a team work, therefore, I also extend my congratulations and applause to the entire team of the journal. Scientific literary endeavours needs perseverance, dedication and perfection, which I find in the author and the same extends to the team members. She would have faced so many hurdles in her editorial work and in bringing out every issue at the stipulated time. Nothing that is worthwhile is ever easy. All the best for the future success year after year.
