

Christmas Movie Games

Three fun Christmas movie games to challenge all levels of movie experts! Play the easy, medium, or challenging one or all three!

Supplies Needed

- Movie game printout
- Pen/pencil

How to Setup

This file includes three different Christmas movie trivia games. For each game, give a copy of the game to whoever is playing and let them fill in as many Christmas movies as they can come up with.

Or if you want to play virtually, print out a copy for yourself and have everyone get a piece of paper and pen (or you can send them a copy of the game).

How to Play

Go over the answers together and whoever gets the most correct wins a point. If playing virtually, you could also just read each line to players and have them write their answer down on a piece of paper.

I've briefly explained the games below based on their difficulty level.

1 - Otherwise Known As - the easiest of the three games, in this game you are given a phrase that is basically another way of saying the movie title (e.g., A tale of the holidays = A Christmas Story)

2 - Santa's Subtitles - for this game, you need to know a bit about the movie to guess it. The clue given is a sub-title or small plot line of the story (e.g., searching for my lost father - Elf).

3 - Can You Guess the Christmas Movie - this is the most difficult of the three games and requires players to guess a movie based on a popular quote from the movie (e.g., There's children throwing snowballs instead of throwing heads = The Nightmare Before Christmas).

Use Policy

All files are provided for personal use only and may not be used for any commercial (for profit purposes). If you have any questions regarding use, please email Britni@playpartyplan.com.

You'll shoot your eye out.

We try to stick to the four main food groups: candy, candy canes, candy corn, and syrup.

Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night! And when I wake up, I'm getting' a CAT scan!

Every time a bell rings an angel gets his wings.

And they'll feast, feast, feast, feast. They'll eat their Who-Pudding and the rare Who Roast Beef.

It's good luck, you know. What is? Getting pooped on by a bird.

Come out and relax on a farm, music, dancing, home cooking.

There's children throwing snowballs instead of throwing heads.

It's not just Kris that's on trial, it's everything he stand for.

Kids are scared of the dark.

It's not going in our yard, it's going in our living room.

The worst thing that ever happened to me was on Christmas.

Better fix that hole in your pocket.

A blue furry Charles Dickens who hangs out with a rat?

A child's been missed!

Oh, that's very funny. Ho, ho, ho. The crooner is now becoming the comic.

You can't spell lies without families.

Have you ever been so alone you spend the night confusing a man in a coma?

I'm Amanda. Loner, loser, and complicated wreck.

You're skipping Christmas? Isn't that against the law?
