

Adept Ape IFS Kit Review

Hi Folks,

Well, if you haven't seen it yet the Adept Ape review of the IFS Kit is on youtube at:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=y1vuOSPDXNM>

I'm sure at the beginning there was some skeptics regarding the performance and return on investment of the IFS Kit. In hopes the independent review of Adept Ape has confirmed what I have stated from day one. IFS Kit will save you major repair dollars along with saving an expensive tow bill.

Some refer to it as insurance to protect the possible damage caused by a defective HEUI. I look at it this way. We all pay insurance for cars, houses, rv's, boats and most ever major dollar asset we own. We pay for this insurance and unless we have a claim, we get nothing in return but peace of mind.

IFS on the other hand is similar except you get something upfront. The product you buy is real. The product you buy is insuring you do not incur major repair bills. This is a one time purchase. We don't come back in 6 months and ask for another payment and you get nothing in return outside of peace of mind. IFS provides you a product and peace of mind for one price, once.

The bottom line is without IFS you could expect a $6,000.00 - $8,000.00 bill if you do not complete the repairs yourself. With IFS you could expect to spend $2,000.00 for a remanufactured HEUI and labor to install.

With all that said along with years of forum discussions regarding all the pain the HEUI pump can cause, it is ultimately your choice to throw the dice and hope they land in your favor if you decide not to invest in IFS to protect your engine components.

As always, we are a phone call away if any questions arise.
Thank you,
George