Love = Happiness Associated With Expanded Trust, Both Upstream and Downstream

---

Love = Happiness Associated With Expanded Trust.

One Might Ask

Why not just have happiness
without expanded trust?

Answer

Having A Voice

means exercising both

Upstream Trust
Of Your Education

Downstream Trust
Of Your Audience

Having An Identity

means exercising

Of Your Education

Downstream Trust
Of Your Audience

Having An Identity

means exercising

You Have An Immense Opportunity To Expand Trust, By Helping To Reorient A Backward Civilization.

Love = Happiness Associated With Expanded Trust.

Trust can be expanded at a range of rates.

You could expand
a small amount of trust,
by telling a joke.

This would expand
your upstream trust
in the sourcing of idea forms,
and
your downstream trust
in the receptivity of your audience.

You could expand
a large amount of trust,
by helping to reorient a backward civilization

This would expand
your upstream trust
in the wisdom of your mentorship
and
your downstream trust
in the development prospects of your audience.

Do you happen to see any backward aspects of the civilization around us?

Prioritization of "What"	Lost Prioritization of "Who"
Prioritization of Oneself	Lost Prioritization of Everyone
Legal Systems Characterized by Complexity and Incomprehensibility, and Remediation by Threats of Discipline	Abandonment of Common Sense, Simplicity, Clarity, and Prevention by Exemplary Kindness

Love vs. Colonization

Love is Happiness associated with Expanded Trust	Colonization is Sadness associated with Lost Trust
Love is Both Short-Term and Long-Term Joyful Empowerment Of Everyone	Colonization is Short-Term Devastating Enslavement Of Others and Long-Term Devastating Enslavement Of Oneself

Democracy = Being Outgunned

Democracy
=
Being Outnumbered By Weaponry
And Forced To Violate Your Conscience
Because Others Believe That You Do Not Have The Right To Be Yourself

YOU BEING BORN AS YOU
is apparently insufficient evidence that the Universe thought that you should get to be you.

YOU GETTING TO BE YOU
from birth
with the consent of the rest of the Universe
is apparently insufficient evidence that YOU SHOULD GET TO BE YOU.

YOU BEING YOU
with the ongoing operational approval of the Universe
is apparently insufficient evidence that YOU SHOULD BE YOU.

The Universe that manages to keep the galaxies in order for eons might just know what it's doing in letting you live.

You think?

If others are offended that YOU HAVE INTEGRITY TO YOUR OWN CONSCIENCE, Their Irrationality
Is Their Own Shortsightedness.

Regardless of how many guns they may think make them right.

Our Soul Family Is Not Here To Colonize Us. They Are Here To Teach Us To Stop Colonizing One Another.

---

If We Want To Explore Other Worlds,
We First Need To Be Responsible Stewards Of This One.

A Conscience Is A Soul's Best Understanding Of Ethics.

---

It is the sacred right and obligation of a soul to be faithful to their own conscience.

Not to instead be faithful to whatever military is most effective in trying to create a wedge between a soul and their own conscience, between a soul
and their own deepest, truest, most sacred understanding of right and wrong.

---

We have no business colonizing one another, let alone colonizing those beyond this world.

---

Relationships and guidance should always be voluntary rather than obligatory.

Unacceptable obligatory tactics include both imprudent physical threats of death, harm, debt, confinement, and imprisonment, and imprudent psychological pressure tactics such as [social or relational] [intimidation or ostracization].

Why would anyone want to deal with Earth humans if we are so obsessed with colonization that we can't stop colonizing each other?

---

The higher beings who are engaging with us have the patience and hope that we will grow into the shoes of responsible stewards.

We would be wise to do so.

Because they won't colonize us by forcing us to do anything.
If we wake up and mature, it will be because WE DECIDE FOR OURSELVES THAT INTEGRITY IS WORTH IT.

Examples of How We Colonize Each Other

Parents dismissing and disputing the sacred intuitions of the souls who they invited into their families as children.

Adults and older children inducing self-consciousness (self-intimidation) in the innate joyful expressions of little children through singing, dancing, or otherwise creating.

People “owning” other souls such as animals.

People “owning” nonphysical souls like ideas, music, or art as intellectual property.
People “owning” anything- as everything is conscious and sovereign, as well as interconnected.

States occupying nearly all the land area of the planet, without giving the Earth human population any collective practical recourse to experience life free of weaponized threats behind laws that the individual souls themselves did not write, review, or specifically approve.

Businesses owning the welfare of workers, and taking the difference between the workers’ productivity and pay.

Exclusivity pressure between spouses.

Conformity pressure from social groups, and from media mischaracterizations of social groups.

Intimidation against spiritual growth by religious institutions which function as financial gatekeepers of social spiritual approval, and which falsely interpret gracious miracles as proof of psychological threats of eternal damnation.

Intimidation against self-led healthcare, including pursuit of rainbow body transformations, rather than submission to death.

Financial systems that are propelled by the mind in finding new, innately-diminishing profit opportunities, rather than the heart in stabilizing on perpetual wellbeing through the altruism of intrinsic fairness.

Worldwide ecological destruction and extinctions of many civilizations, amidst neglect of higher, more altruistic beings sharing this world.

Governmental concealment of spiritual knowledge and affiliated healthcare, energy, and transportation resources.
Government-pressured media mischaracterization of spirituality as irrelevant and false.

In Acclimating To [Natural/True] Rather Than [Artificial/False] Reality

---

What is the most worthwhile/important field of study?

---

Wouldn't it be the one with the greatest potential
– SPIRITUALITY –
to which even the “laws of physics” are reportedly subordinate?

---

Is there enough cursory evidence of spiritual truth to warrant further analysis?

Does the spirituality of over 80% of the world population constitute enough “smoke” to search for “fire”?

Don't you feel a fundamental sense of obligation to be faithful to the greatest truth, whatever it is?

How can you be fully faithful to something that you do not feel is properly understood?

---

Is it worthwhile
to begin your quest by living long enough to untangle many centuries of church-and-state conflicts of interest, ascertain historical and metaphysical events millennia after the fact, and sort through comparative analyses of all the world's key belief systems or by beginning with a contemporary large-scale high-credibility multi-decade uncontested whistleblower movement that ultimately harmonizes with the knowledge base of indigenous populations worldwide?

---

Upon acclimating
to the nature and wisdom of the spiritual realm and our mentors within it, shouldn't we ponder and tentatively build upon such a foundation?

Isn't service about harmonizing between broad theory (which is already well mastered by your mentors)
and local opportunities (to which you innately have the most specific knowledge) such that you are collaborating rather than blindly (thus failingly) accepting or giving orders?

If free will is sacrosanct, then isn't the nature of reality to harmonize [trust toward our mentors] with [trust toward our students] in collaboratively striving to ever enhance reality?

Rather than to blindly accept ideas at face value or blindly impose ideas at face value.

---

Isn't service about
collaboration rather than command?

Isn't imposition unnecessary and counterproductive to the process of
HARMONIZING
between broader principles and narrower applications?

Isn't the process of dismissing something without first researching it a working definition of ignorance?

---

Unless we know everything, how would we be certain that any particular reality does not exist?

How would we ever conclusively establish that we know everything?

Wouldn't dismissing something without research constitute ignorance?

Isn't there always the possibility that a finite amount of research is insufficient?
Doesn't a finite termination of research imply an innate acceptance of ignorance?
If research is necessarily limited, shouldn't there at least be humility regarding this point?

Aren't the boundary limits of research/intellect/the mind thus framed by intuition/emotion/the heart?

Does infinite love resonate with your heart as ultimate reality?

Does infinite hate resonate with your heart as ultimate reality?

What crisis (as defined in the short run)
does not amount to a valuable lesson (as defined in the long run)?

Would it not be prudent to be humble and soft-spoken like children, honoring the sacred truth that our knowledge is limited?

Shouldn't we adopt the humble soft-spoken nature of children, rather than causing them to grow overconfident, thus dimming their receptivity to learning further truth?

When little children keep asking "Why", aren't they pointing you toward what is understood to be the convergent apex of spirituality-the point that Everything Is Ultimately Love?

Why would we assume that only repeating patterns are real?

Does a building have to burn down twice before we heed a fire alarm?

If spirituality frames everything, why wouldn't a spiritual mentor strive to engage your heart moreso than your mind?

Isn't it fair that the blessed realm of spiritual reality be accessible on the basis of spiritual aptitude (altruism/integrity/courage/diligence) rather than intellectual aptitude (which can differ as a consequence of species genetics)?

---

Why would a higher spiritual being pose as a lower intellectual being, and thus reinforce the backward (mind > heart) conventions of colonialism that are restraining this civilization from spiritual maturity, sustainability, and growth?

Why would we assume that higher spiritual beings are only accessible through Earth human gatekeepers, and are constantly in need of financing through Earth human money handlers?

Is the zenith of spirituality truly characterized by the ongoing need for our Earth human money (let alone fiat money, which is tied to nothing)?

Aren't threats of harm and eternal damnation
the exact opposites
of respecting your dutiful complete allegiance to your own conscience, which innately can be done only by you, through the soul experience/journey to which you were sacredly endowed at birth?

In Acclimating To [Natural/True] Rather Than [Artificial/False] Reality

How would we begin to harmonize with the will of higher beings without (even if implicitly just through the unspoken intent of our heart) acknowledging their existence or seeking their counsel?

If the heart is what matters most,
is language fundamentally necessary at all?

---

If we were to potentially do something with a piece of land, how would we possibly come up with the reasonably-wisest solution without first coordinating with the spiritual beings already most familiar with the land?

Wouldn't we want to deeply understand the land and its history, values, and intent, and the history, values, and intent of the occupants/ecosystems currently harmonizing with the land?

Isn't such comprehensive understanding innately impossible, except through recognition of the integrity (rightmindedness / altruism) within our heart?

If everything is conscious and sacrosanct, then isn't everything an act of collaboration?

Isn't our dynamic existence thus better characterized as "We" than "Me"?

If everything is innately an act of collaboration, shouldn't we be wise about the beings, thought forms, etc. to whom we give our focus?
