“One in four workers have been ‘driven to tears’ due to workplace stress.”—Forbes: Korn Ferry research study

Fresco also notes that everyone’s brain is uniquely structured. “Neurotransmitter setpoints are different for every brain,” said Fresco. “That’s why most one-size-fits-all nootropics can actually do more harm than good.”

Nootropics are “brain boost” supplements that can offer tremendous benefits while lowering stress, but most include ingredients that can cause harmful side effects—which is why many have 35% to 50% negative reviews.

LEADER86™ supplements offer SAFE ingredients that can help reduce stress and anxiety while boosting memory, focus and clarity without causing adverse side effects. They can help balance your brain, increase energy, and reduce your weight. Ingredients include Gingko, Bacopa, St. John’s Wart, Huperzine A and Phosphatidylserine—many of which have been clinically tested with results posted on the NIH PubMed.gov site.

Maintaining your “leader’s edge” and empowering workplace wellness requires energy, focus, mental clarity, and unfailing memory. You can’t afford to risk below-par performance, peer or subordinate disapproval, or your career. Our neuroscientific formulas are based on a decade of research, but if you’re not happy with the results, we offer a 100% money back guarantee if you contact us within 30 days of purchase.

Leading research firm, Korn Ferry, discovered something shocking: 80% of working adults are afflicted by stress on the job and half want help. One in four have been “driven to tears” by stress and it’s costing U.S. employers $450 billion per year for healthcare, recruiting, and productivity loss. Unfortunately, only 16% of firms have programs or solutions to deal with it, and most workplace wellness programs are only “band aids” that offer minimal or temporary relief.

Leading neuroscientists, including Dr. German Fresco—the author of Train Your Brain For Success—note that yoga and yogurt alone are no longer sufficient in dealing with high stress.

“Life and work stress can unbalance your brain,” said Fresco. “It can increase norepinephrine and cortisol, which lower oxytocin, serotonin, and dopamine. Only the right supplements will help regain your proper balance.”
