

July 2020 is one for the Record Books!
Happy Birthday, USA. This year will not be forgotten for decades to come. Many will not see firework displays this year. :(

Hello, Friends!

What's New? Nothing. We are still Dealing.

It's another month we deal with the effects of COVID-19. Another month of wearing masks. I keep hearing about all the states that decided to open every business up early, and now have a relapse of the virus. Some didn't think it was necessary to social distance. Our young adults have been hit hard because of their nonchalance with the protocol established. Sad. Now we all go back to starting the different phases again. This is delaying the healing process. Wear Your Masks, Wash, and Disinfect Your Hands.

Daily Posts

I'm still posting daily online. On my Facebook's FanForevermore page, and on LinkedIn. If you are in need of content for your newsletters or postings and would like to chat about your company... We should chat.

It's Two for Tuesday! Whooo Are Youuu?
What are your thoughts on Where you ARE,
and Where you are GOING?
Tuesdays are a reflection of what you want to be and what you are doing to become that person.

Don't follow fake people. They will show up and look like a dog, and act like a dog, but are NOT a Dog.
Keep asking the hard questions. Keep discerning what is right and what is wrong with this picture?

PS for those wondering...

I moved my mother into an apartment only five blocks from my house! Yay! They accepted her dog, Libby, and I think it will work out splendidly! Thank you for the prayers. God is Very Good to Me and the Blessings are still coming in full-speed. Thanks, Friends. :)
