Nancy Sterling Tyler

Winter brings lots of opportunities to the helm for Nancy Sterling Tyler. Two works were dropped off for the Frisco's TheGallery8680 February exhibit RED. And of course the theme color of those two pieces are definitely in the RED Color Family. This gallery on east Main Street pulls out the welcome mat for visitors so be sure and drive over for the Reception on Friday, Feb. 9, 7-9 p.m. and get your RED visual treat.

Another great surprise for Nancy Sterling Tyler was acceptance of two pieces in the Texas Invitational at a the Pearce Museum in Corsicana. This years' theme is Modern Texas through Western Art and Nancy's plein air pieces will fit in nicely with this theme. Pull on your Cowboy boots for a great opening reception on Tuesday evening, Feb. 20, 5:30-7:30 p.m.

Katherine Mays

In my local church, we have a group of boy scouts that were in need of an art badge and I was asked if I could provide a pop-up art display for them. On this day, I learned that children have a great interest in art and wanted to share their feelings and emotions about what they were experiencing as their little eyes focused on my work. Some were sharing deep feelings about the painting of the little boy behind the screen door. Most of them loved the painting of the mountains, trees and river. My takeaway was, never underestimate the appreciation and emotions coming from children while viewing art.

Tina Alvarez

"Bark Beauty", a photographic print of Tina's , will be exhibited in the VAST 175-Mile Exhibition at the Patterson Appleton Arts Center in Denton until Feb 17.

Tina's "Planes, Trains, Cars, & Cycles" an exhibit of her matted photographic prints, will continue in the South Lobby of the Lewisville Grand Theater through March 23.
