

EGYPTIAN IN THE FIELD AS A TYPE OF CHRIST

- The Egyptian's master forsook him when he was weak and suffering; Jesus was forsaken by God when he was weak and suffering.
- The Egyptian had his spirit return after 3 days of his suffering; Jesus's spirit returned after 3 days of his death and suffering.
- The Egyptian was found in the field by David's men (being found implies first being hidden); Jesus was found by Mary after being hidden in the tomb.
- The Egyptian then came to David after first encountering his men; Jesus then came to the other disciples after first encountering Mary.
- David did not know who the Egyptian was then the Egyptian proceeded to tell him who he was; the disciples did not know who Jesus was, as they thought they had seen a spirit then Jesus proceeded to tell them who he was.
- The Egyptian was given food to eat on the third day, after they saw him; Jesus was also given food to eat on the third day, after he was seen by his disciples.
- The Egyptian told David about what he had done; Jesus also told his disciples what he had done.
- The Egyptian then led David and his men to triumph over their enemies; Jesus leads his followers to triumph over their enemies.
