Rebecca Friedrichs is part of a movement to restore the voices and authority of parents and teachers in America's schools.

As a twenty-eight-year public school teacher, she was forced to fund unions whose politics and divisive tactics degraded her profession, our schools, and our national character.

Her lawsuit, Friedrichs v California Teachers' Association, brought with ten other teachers, was argued before the U.S. Supreme Court in January 2016, and blazed the trail for ending forced unionism for all teachers and government employees in the United States.

Her book, Standing Up to Goliath, is Rebecca's expose of corrupt and abusive unions. And she's a producer of the documentary Whose Children Are They?

Rebecca and her husband Charles, founded For Kids and Country through which they educate and empower Americans to abandon unions so we can restore our republic.

Rebecca's editorials can be found in outlets nationwide. She appears regularly on radio and television. She's a Prager University host, and she was the second speaker on the opening night of the 2020 Republican National Convention.

Most importantly, Rebecca is a lover of Jesus Christ, the wife of Charles and mother of two grown sons Kyle and Benjamin.

President's Message

"Where Do We Go From Here?"

By the time you read this, most Americans will have cast their votes in local, state, and national elections, and we will know the changes that will shape our future. Many will be asking the question, "Where do we go from here?" Regardless of the outcome, no one can deny that we are in a difficult time, and no one can predict the course we will take to rebuild confidence. I look forward to the end of the hostility and nastiness we've endured this year, because the insanity we've witnessed cannot be justified.

People I've known all my life have become so consumed by hate that they now agree with opinions they would never express as their own. As a nation, it feels like we've collectively lost our minds. Soon, we will be rid of political ads, the groundswell of questionable promises, and, hopefully, the mudslinging between political parties. The news media has had a field day, often presenting opinions without facts. Winston Churchill once said, "A lie gets halfway around the world before the truth gets its pants on." Of course, he couldn't have foreseen the internet, social media, or the barrage of unsettling news that has driven us into confusion and fear.

Frankly, I'm tired of hearing opposition voices that offer no concrete alternatives, finding fault while seeing only doom on all sides.

When times are tough, I turn to the great leaders of the past. Doing so helps me better understand and embrace their vision for the foundation of our government. I take comfort in knowing that the strength of our Democratic Republic has been tested many times, though perhaps never as severely as now. One quote from Thomas Jefferson resonates deeply today, especially considering the propositions on our ballot: "I sincerely believe that banking establishments are more dangerous than standing armies, and that the principle of spending money to be paid by posterity under the name of funding is but swindling futurity on a large scale."

We must never lose sight of shaping the future ourselves. What we do on Election Day should not end there. Election Day is a means to an end, not an end in itself.

No matter the national outcome, we must set our sights on changing the political environment in California and work to challenge the Democratic supermajority in Sacramento. I encourage everyone to stay involved locally and stay informed about the policies coming out of Sacramento.

Linda Koelling,
President, OCGSRW

As Thanksgiving approaches, may we be reminded of the many blessings we all share—family, friends, health, and the fact that we are Americans living in the greatest country in the world.

May God bless us all, and may God bless the United States of America.

Malfunctioning Legislature: A Threat to Good Governance and the Will of the People

By Linda Koelling, President

As we move forward from the November elections, it's crucial that we turn our attention to how our local and state governments are operating. Specifically, we must ensure that control over our communities remains in the hands of the people, not dominated by lawmakers in Sacramento. With 62 Democrats and 17 Republicans in the Assembly (with one vacant seat), the dangerous imbalance of one-party rule has resulted in Democrats making decisions unilaterally, often disregarding the voices of voters.

This is no trivial matter—it is not representation. We, the people, must regain control over the progress and direction of our communities and resist the unchecked governance coming from Sacramento.

The situation in California is alarming. The recent propositions on the ballot reflect continued borrowing by Democrats, placing the burden of debt squarely on the backs of homeowners for years to come. And it is intentional. Consider the implications if California's financial collapse were to ripple across the country. This is a matter of grave concern for the entire nation.

The erosion of local government control is perhaps most evident in the numerous housing bills passed in recent years, which jeopardize the quality of life in California communities. This "one-size-fits-all" approach to housing ignores the unique needs and circumstances of each community.

Thankfully, Our Neighborhood Voices (ONV) is stepping up as a key advocate for affordable, appropriate housing in California. A grassroots coalition of neighbors and local leaders with over 25,000 supporters statewide, ONV advocates for housing that is affordable for middle, working, and lower-income Californians, while also being tailored to fit the character of each community. Their vision includes collaboration between neighbors, developers, business owners, and local officials—an approach that respects democracy and local input.

In stark contrast, recent state laws have undermined and disenfranchised millions of Californians. The political establishment, fueled by millions in donations, has empowered developers to build whatever, wherever, and however they please, regardless of local needs. This leaves residents and their representatives without a voice. These laws disproportionately target suburbs and single-family communities, and ONV is leading the charge to fight back against this undemocratic overreach.

I am particularly disturbed by the state's ongoing efforts to "stack and pack," densifying established residential neighborhoods without sufficient local input. This top-down approach neglects the voices of the people when significant changes are being imposed on our communities.

To make matters worse, Governor Gavin Newsom has recently signed legislation that increases the state attorney general's power to fine cities that fail to comply with state housing laws. Under current law, the attorney general must sue non-compliant cities, and penalties only start accruing months, or sometimes years, after a ruling. However, once Senate Bill 1037 goes into effect, fines can be retroactively assessed from the date the violation began, with the revenue directed toward building affordable housing in the penalized jurisdiction.

This is yet another instance of the state tightening its grip on local governance.

We, the people, are losing control of our destiny. We must unite to save our communities, and in doing so, save our families. Local issues require local solutions—not mandates handed down by a few who seem intent on undermining our trust and consolidating power. We must reclaim that power and return it to the hands of the people, where it belongs.

United Sovereign Americans

"An Organization Actively Seeking to Protect Our Elections!"

If you haven't heard of United Sovereign Americans (USA) please take the time to visit their website united4freedom.com. It's a group of volunteers strictly focused on election integrity that has found so many irregularities throughout the country, it's terrifying.

USA has filed nine federal civil rights lawsuits on behalf of American citizens. Their analysis has measured the effect of election misconduct, and their litigation strategy has pre-positioned standing for the American people in advance of the 2024 election. The states where the federal lawsuits have been filed thus far are Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Florida, Texas, North Carolina, Michigan, Colorado, and Georgia. The good news is since they're federal lawsuits, they apply to all states. You can visit this link to view the court filings.

Most importantly, if you encounter anything unusual, disturbing or blatantly fraudulent, like you're told you already voted when you show up at your vote center to cast your vote, please contact the USA Complaint site to file a complaint. There is a brief video that takes you through the process to effectively file your complaint and allow USA to assist.

Be Careful What Pen You Use to Cast Your Vote!

Robin Itzler, an extraordinary patriot and the founder/editor of a nationwide conservative newsletter called Patriot Neighbors was kind enough to let me share what I read in her most recent newsletter edition regarding what ink we use when we vote can make a difference! Please see her article below:

VOTING WITH BLUE OR BLACK INK

 Why do many mail-in ballots state to only use BLACK ink when ballots completed with BLUE ink are also accepted? In "Let My People Go," a documentary on election integrity, David Clements shares that by having voters only use black ink, it is easy for nefarious people (working alone, in groups, or with government complicity) to finish ballots that haven't been completely filled out. Clements is a former American lawyer and a former assistant professor of the New Mexico State University. He is known for his advocacy of election integrity in the United States.

Have you ever submitted a ballot but skipped some races? Sometimes people skip races when they don't know WHO or WHAT to vote for. A judgeship, city council, school board, proposition ... ah, but someone or some agency with evil intentions could complete the ballot when it's already been filled out in black. Why? Because there are not many shades of black and that means it won't appear that two people filled out one ballot. However, a ballot completed using blue ink, the reprehensible person or agency could not fill in any missing races since there are ...

Many shades of blue.

Many shades of blue.

Many shades of blue.

Many shades of blue.

October Meeting Recap

What a great and informative meeting it was! Our guest speaker, Deborah Pauly, a staff attorney with The Lex Rex Institute and President of Conservative Patriots of Orange County, gave an excellent rundown of all the propositions on the ballot in November. She said to vote 'no' on all except for propositions 34 and 36...with an argument for and against proposition 6. She was leaning toward 'yes' on that one.

We also heard from our outstanding School Board candidates Jennifer Adnams, Lisa Zollinger and Lisa Davis. Listening to their stories of what inspired them to run for office and the obstacles they've encountered doing so gave us all such hope that we can indeed save our schools and our kids from the evil that has penetrated over the last 20 years. We are blessed to have such courageous, dedicated women leading the charge!

As always, it was a fun luncheon where many friends reconnected and shared their conservative views while feasting on a nice meal! Those cookies were to die for!

The Voice of a True Patriot...Lieutenant Colonel Robert "Buzz" Patterson

By Joan Garnett

It isn't every day that I'm wowed by someone's take on the state of our Republic. I'm on X daily and hear many inspiring words, but none that moved me as much as Lt. Colonel Buzz Patterson's view which he published on X on Tuesday, October 21st having written it a few years ago.

Buzz published a book earlier this year that is a deep dive into the Clinton administration called Dereliction of Duty. For two years, Buzz was the White House military aide that carried the 'nuclear football' which provides the President with remote nuclear strike capabilities. His behind-the-scenes story exposes Bill Clinton to be anti-military, narcissistic and irresponsible in his duties as President of the United States. What he describes is shocking and is terrifying to read knowing we were in such danger with Bill Clinton at the helm of our country. As you can imagine, he also includes a few nasty encounters with Hillary as well.

Following is what Buzz published on X. I commend this man for his courage and service to our country.

@BuzzPatterson

The name of American, which belongs to you, in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of Patriotism, more than any other appellation derived from local discriminations... Citizens by birth or choice of a common country, that country has a right to concentrate your affections." - President George Washington, Farewell Address, September 17, 1796. I've often wondered why great civilizations fail. I've walked through the ruins in ancient

Rome, Athens, Cairo, and Venice reflecting on what once was. And I'm always left wondering, "What in the hell happened?" For each of these civilizations, something ultimately brought their demise. Now I understand. I'm watching it happen to my country. With our nation engaged in a struggle to defend its civilization, we have a "Fifth Column" solely intent on destroying what we and our ancestors have built. I'm also watching fellow Americans, leading Democrat Party officials, our education system, our popular culture, and our media actively destroying the roots and Judeo-Christian principles we were founded on. What country's duly elected politicians, from both sides of the aisle, would shamelessly trumpet sending billions of dollars to Ukraine to protect their citizens, government, and border while neglecting the shutdown of our government, the invasion of our sovereign border, the crime in our streets, and the miserable plight of our homeless vets? What country has built a political structure in which elected "representatives" can make millions on the back of taxpayers and through insider trading, without ever really listening to those they serve? Whose elected officials issue edicts that limit the personal liberties of the 99% while dining at exclusive restaurants, communing at fancy retreats, and coiffing at haughty hair salons? What country's legal system has been completely corrupted to the point that we have two levels of justice – the feudal land barons and the serfs? What country celebrates secularism, atheism, and idolatry over faith believers? What country underwrites an educational system that excludes parents, encourages sexual identity confusion, celebrates transgender lifestyles, and cultivates hatred for the nation so deeply that scholars openly cheer for the country's defeat? What country's moral compass is so skewed that it worships popular culture, bestowing untold wealth, fame, and popularity on its actors and musicians even as their contemptible words and subversive actions embolden our enemies around the world? I'm thoroughly disgusted to say my country. This isn't the nation I was born and raised in.

This isn't the nation I grew to love and revere. This isn't the nation that I served, flew, and fought for over 20 years. This isn't the nation that I want to raise my children and future children in. Great civilizations don't collapse because foreign enemies breach the fortress walls – great civilizations die because they rot from within. The American Left is seeking this outcome. They seek and are aggressively executing the plan. The American Left believes America is a jackbooted heel to the throat of the world, no matter how evil our foe. As the radical fringes drag along their more moderate liberal fellow travelers, they have brought the war home. They don't care about you, they don't care about me, they don't care about our United States. They care about power. There is no doubt, we, as a republic, are at a crossroads. Our political process is broken due to the greed and ego of many who place their own well-being over yours. We are in a cold civil war that may turn hot. Ultimately, as in 1776, it will be upon us, the people.

Vote accordingly.

News Snippets

Here are a few items of interest that have happened recently.

1. CBS edits Bill Whitaker's 60 Minutes interview with Kamala Harris to make her seem more intelligent...ha, try harder CBS! Big fail. And now they've been slapped with an FCC complaint (thanks to brave CBS ex-employee Catherine Herridge sounding off on this). Read article here.
2. Not that we weren't aware of China spying on us, especially after learning that they had infiltrated our research institutions, beginning in Texas universities through Confucius Institutes and Confucius Classrooms, one of the most widespread tools used by the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) to influence higher education around the world, but especially in the United States. Now we learn that under the Biden/Harris administration, China has been busy infiltrating the U.S. with spies. Published in a Counterterrorism Report by the House Homeland Security Committee, according to Committee Chair and Rep. Mark Green, R-Tenn "Beijing has continually encroached upon American sovereignty to spy, intimidate, and harass not only defectors, but even American citizens." Read article here.
3. Bill Gates, that billionaire pain-in-the-arse whom I'd like to swat away like an annoying fly, is now, finally, being held accountable for his eccentric, (and probably evil) overwhelming vaccine support. Seven people injured by the COVID-19 vaccine have sued Bill Gates in the Netherlands. The group is also including Albert Bourla, CEO of Pfizer, former Dutch prime minister and newly appointed NATO Secretary General Mark Rutte and "several members" of the Dutch government's COVID-19 "Outbreak Management Team." Maybe some of the people who were vaccine injured will be compensated for their misery. Read article here.

Elon Musk’s America PAC

By Joan Garnett

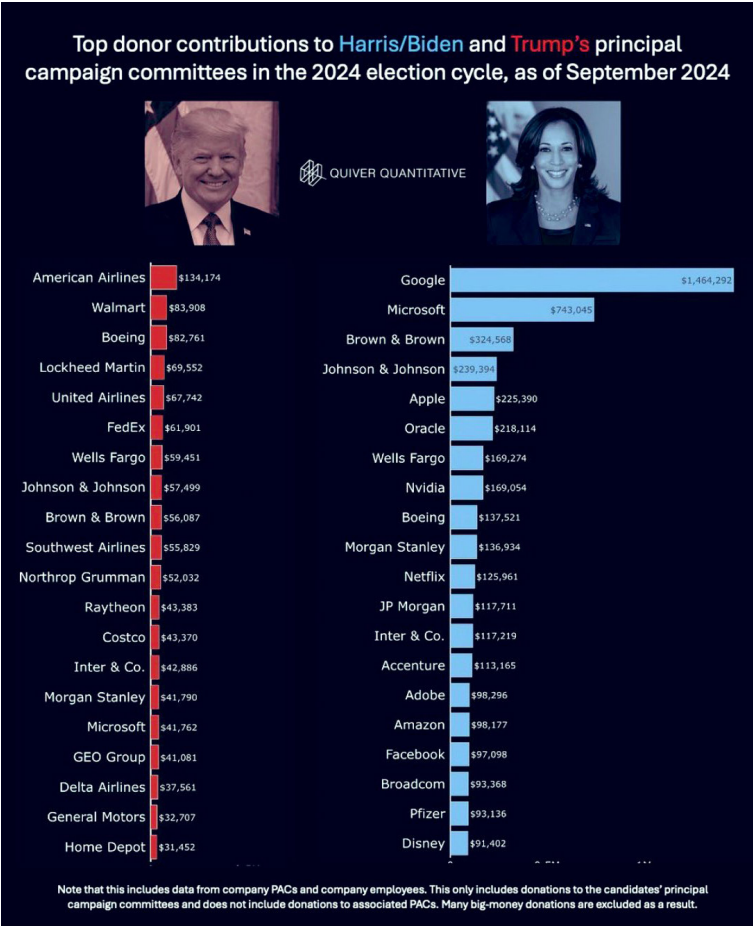

Elon has been awarding winners of a daily raffle $1,000,000. The raffle is based on those who sign his petition in a battleground state saying they support both the First and Second Amendments of the Constitution. You can follow who wins on X @america. Also on this site are live updates on the progress of votes between Trump and Harris in the battleground states.

Elon, being the richest man in the world, not to mention one of the most intelligent as well, has become such a blessing to the MAGA movement. He’s sunk millions into Republican campaigns and is actively campaigning himself for Trump in the battleground states. His love for the survival of the U.S. sets a great example for all of us to fight to preserve what our Founding Fathers envisioned and began as an experiment in liberty.

Biggest Donors to Trump and Harris

By Joan Garnett

Is it any big surprise that Google, Microsoft, Apple, Oracle, Johnson and Johnson are Cackling Harris’s biggest donors? Certainly gives one pause if you still use Google as your search engine that your results are indeed left leaning. If you haven’t tried it yet, Freespoke is an excellent search engine and also a reliable source of articles and how they ‘lean’. Freespoke.com

Polymarket Predictions

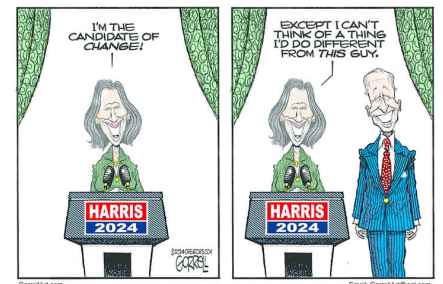

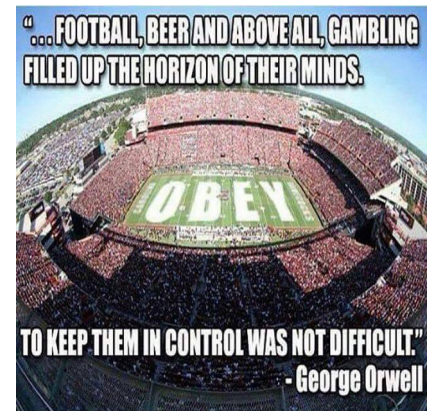

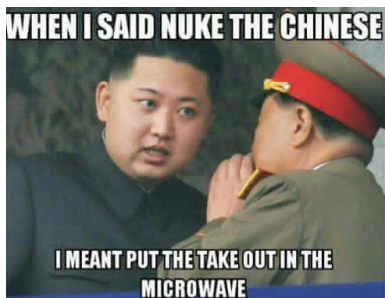

By Joan Garnett

If you haven’t followed the Polymarket predictions (Polymarket.com), you may want to if for no other reason than to see how bets are being placed on the Trump/Harris presidential race. The pic attached is one I took off of the Polymarket app I downloaded, which shows Trump way ahead. If you visit the website, you can view the volume of trading that was used to make those predictions. Looking today, Monday, October 28th, the amount placed thus far in total bets was $2.6 billion with Trump winning. Not sure how accurate this has been with past election predictions, but I sure like what I’m seeing now!
