

Hidden Innovations – Remote Office Spaces – by AWeigh.net

“No problem can withstand the assault of sustained thinking.” - Voltaire

Many serious challenges have prevented “true remote” working outside of buildings on the grid. Providing abundant power and fast Internet connectivity was fairly easy. Enabling indoor quality display viewing, cyber conscience Internet management, uneven terrain stabilization, protection from the elements and all contained within a space occupied by a 3' x 5' outdoor carpet took a bit more figuring.

These science and technology innovations were designed to be transparent to our clients. High quality workspace comfort is our goal for those seeking more inspirational places to work. Most importantly, we also tackle the mental, emotional and psychological challenges of working productively anywhere. For these limitations, we turn to the experts in our AWeigh blog (<https://aweigh.net/aweigh-blog>) to provide support and direction.

The gentleman above is now presented with an exciting option. He can end up at any physical address worldwide to begin his productive workday. Or he can simply get AWeigh.
