

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT MENTORSHIP PROGRAM

Through our teams at the leading private schools, GradPal aims to connect international students to the US educational system and the world's top universities in order to craft value-generating experiences for all involved. It is our mission to help educate others about the opportunities available through the US and to make such a pathway realistic for interested international students.

We currently focus on cultivating such opportunities for students in Africa, the Middle East, Southeast Asia, & South America. We are interested in expanding to India and China as well and welcome outreach.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT?

Many international schools, especially those in countries geared towards France or the UK, do not do a suitable job in making their students aware of the opportunities presented through a US education, and fail to teach interested students about the necessary processes and requirements. With GradPal, you become an American educational ambassador.

YOUR ENGAGEMENT

Private school students can specify exactly how much they are willing to be engaged and can take the initiative to engage as they see fit. This makes sure that your genuine goodwill and efforts are never being taken advantage of, and that you always maintain full control of your schedule.

LEVERAGING THE PROGRAM

With GradPal, involved students have a cost-free and flexible opportunity to work and mentor international students, develop ties to Ivy League/top school affiliates, and craft a moving and personal experience involving cross-cultural dialogue that can be highlighted in a first-rate application.

INTERNATIONAL POTENTIAL

The International Student Mentorship Program is a way to connect with top students from around the world, including academic superstars, the children of international notables and ministers, and the people who are likely to be your future classmates.
