Professional Background

I'm a creative communications, marketing, and experiential professional with more than 35 years of experience. I'm passionate about visual storytelling and building engaging brand experiences, and I've been fortunate to share that passion with organizations ranging from global brands to small startups. Throughout my career, I've specialized in developing integrated content and live events that connect with audiences across digital, social, video, print, and in-person environments.

Connection to the Mission

We have a daughter with special needs, and as we have been navigating her transition from teen to adult, we have experienced many challenges and wish to not only conquer those challenges with her but help others along the way as we learn and grow.
