CORVETTE ENGINEERING

THE FOLLOWING IS A Q & A BETWEEN JEFF FARBER VP AND JOSH HOLDER, CHIEF CORVETTE PRODUCT ENGINEER.....

New Year's Question: Did you and Angela enjoy libations and stay up until midnight? Keep it clean, but tell us what you did New Year's Eve? We enjoyed a small amount of libations. I made it to midnight....Angela did not.

Cars are Computers Question: Approximately how many computer chips are used in the ERay? There are hundreds of chips in an ERay and the exact number (which I wouldn't tell anyway) would depend on the option content. Modules have multiple chips as do many switches and sensors and actuators.

Engineering Question: If one wanted to jump a draw bridge that was opening, how fast would you need to drive your ERay, if the bridge deck was at 35 degrees and the jump distance was 100 feet? At least 43mph. Given the ERay's center of gravity position would make for a nice landing angle, but no one should ever try this.

Fuel Question: How would one siphon gas out of the filler neck of a C8?

I hope you never have that need.....If you are wondering about theft, there is an anti-siphon device in the fuel filler neck – you can't get a hose down through the neck into the tank. To siphon fuel would require breaking a few parts. Of course the fuel door also locks, so that would be the first part a thief would need to break. If you want to transfer fuel from your C8 to another car that is low on fuel – sorry....

If you happen to find a C8 that has been sitting in a barn for a few years with some really old fuel in it, there are service procedures to safely drain fuel.

Josh the Sportsman Question: Explain your snow skiing experience, and tell us your favorite ski area. I started skiing when I was 7 or 8 years old. I did all of the hot dog stuff you could think of when I was in my teens and early 20's. There really wasn't any terrain my friends and I didn't go down - super steep chutes, big moguls, cornices, including terrain that snow doesn't stick to...like cliffs. I had season passes every year through high school. I went to college in Utah and joined the ski team. I wasn't really into racing, but I got a free season pass out of the deal. After college I moved to Michigan where there aren't any mountains, therefore nothing I'd call a ski resort, regardless of the advertising claim. I've gone "skiing" in Michigan a few times, but since no turns are required, I now only really get to ski when I go back to Montana to see family at Christmas. Like riding a bike, I don't think you ever lose fundamental technique, but I keep my skis on the ground way more often than I used to and have cut the speeds by about 50%.

Travel Question: Where do you and Angela want to travel on your bucket list? New Zealand

Questions: You were a musical teenager you previously told us. Did you have Van Halen hair when you were in your band? What was your favorite band in the 80s?

I did not have hair to match the bands of the 80's. I did have 80's hair, just not that long. I don't think I could name a favorite hair band of the 80's. Van Halen was certainly one of them. Def Leppard was too.

Car Feature Request: Please put a 10 gallon tank in future EVs, with a garden hose adapter and a pump that pushes the fuel through the adapter when activated. Provide a button on the key fob that activates the pump. The car will be gas storage for our old lawnmowers, generators and boats. You already have a hundred years of development of the fuel delivery system in cars and that technology should not be wasted since we use fuel for our other important machines.

Sorry – no chance that's happening.

Corvette Racing Question: Are there tentative plans for a car corral and/or hospitality tent for the IMSA race at Laguna Seca this year? Can you get all of us free tickets? (50 will do)

The Corvette team will be represented at Laguna Seca this year. I don't know if I'll be there and I'm sorry I can't get free tickets for everyone.

VICE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

JANUARY 29, 2024

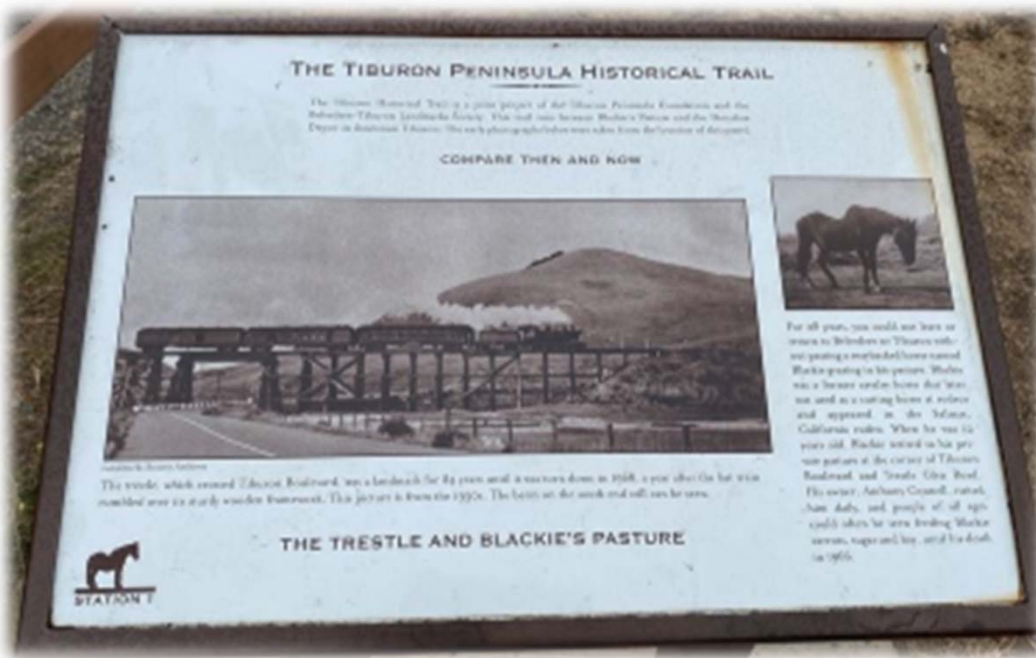

Looking Back.

From that headline, you might think I am writing a retrospective article on the club. No, that would be too easy and I'll leave that to the club elders who have a longer tenure than me. I was thinking back to my younger days and had a bit of Nostalgia. I found a website where some people my age were reminiscing about BMX racing and posted stories and photos from the 1970s when we raced. For my older brother and I, we raced for three seasons.

The races took place primarily at Blackie's Pasture, on the way to Tiburon where the old train trestle crossed the street. And we also raced in Kentfield in a field near Magnolia and not far from College of Marin. Our friends, the Zuninos, owned Shaw's ice cream parlor in a strip shopping center on Magnolia and across the street was the Village Peddler bike shop who sponsored us.

I was pretty good and usually placed first to third at most events. The hardest part of racing was getting to the races. Most of the Dad's didn't want to go to races on weekend mornings. They wanted to do chores or their own idea of fun. We grew up in Greenbrae and typically rode our bikes to the races and rode home afterwards.

In my last year, a few of us qualified for the Northern California championship held at Merritt College in Oakland. Luckily, a few Dads with station wagons hauled our bikes and us to the race. That race track was nothing like we had experienced before. The start was a sprint for about 50 yards mostly straight and slightly downhill. Then after an initial large jump, the course wound back and forth with berms at the corners until we reached Dead Man's Hill. It should have been called Dead Kids Hill as there were tons of crashes and injuries there. The hill was long and very steep.

You used your brake the whole way down. The more gutsy riders would momentarily release the brake, the less gutsy would skid all the way down the hill.

At the bottom, there was a jump and a sharp right turn. If you took the jump too slow, someone behind you likely crashed into you. If you took the jump too fast, you landed too close to the berm and crashed over it into the rough brushes. After the right turn about 50 feet away was the finish.

I finished second in my very last race and won a trophy I still have. BMX racing was a great sport during the winter which helped me gain an appreciation for “moving” fast.

Club News.....

We do not have any scheduled autocrosses for this year. Our autocross team, led by Mike Giordano, are working on possible dates with other clubs at Sonoma Raceway. I am learning all about our new umbrella organization, NCCC’s insurance offerings and rules. I will share what I learn in the coming newsletters.

MICHELIN BEGAN REVIEWING RESTAURANTS TO BOOST TIRE SALES.

A Michelin star is one of the highest honors in the culinary world, signifying exceptional quality in a restaurant's cuisine. The coveted rating is considered the authority on fine dining around the world, but the Michelin Guide started as little more than a driver's roadside companion. In the late 19th century, brothers André and Édouard Michelin founded the Michelin tire manufacturing company in Clermont-Ferrand, France. At the time, the automobile industry was still on the rise, with only around 3,000 cars on the road. In 1900, as a way to promote more automobile travel and, in turn, boost tire sales for their company, the Michelin brothers launched the Michelin Guide. The free book included relevant information for motorists such as maps, tire repair tips, and listings of fuel retailers, accommodations, and places to eat.

As the guide evolved, so did its approach to evaluating dining establishments. Readers showed interest in the restaurant and hotel information, and in the 1920s, Michelin began hiring critics to anonymously assess and review restaurants at length. The famed "star" system debuted in 1926; at first, rankings consisted only of a single star, but by 1931, the three-star system still used today made its debut. A single star denoted "a very good restaurant," two stars signified "excellent cooking worth a detour," and three stars represented "exceptional cuisine worth a special journey." To date, Michelin has sold more than 30 million copies of its guidebooks, and chefs who have been on the receiving end of a star have said that the prestige does indeed increase business. Michelin, however, doesn't disclose whether the guides are profitable to the company, nor just how many tires the guides have helped it sell.
