

The West Virginia Public Health Association is pleased to announce that the Annual WV Public Health Conference will be returning to Oglebay
Resort and Conference Center in Wheeling, WV on September 17th - 19th, 2025.

Message from the President
David Whittaker

It's almost that time of year again for all of us WV Public Health Association members and public health servants to gather at our annual conference for educational and networking opportunities. I am extremely excited to announce that we have an excellent agenda and speakers lined up this year. The executive council and myself have worked extremely hard to offer a diverse, exciting and educating agenda that will benefit all public health employees.

Last year was the anniversary of 100 years of WV Public Health Association and our conference was a wonderful way to celebrate our first 100 years as an association. As we move forward toward the next century, we are excited to take the association to levels never seen before. The key to a successful organization is inclusivity and participation. My hope as President is that more people become involved in the association and attending the annual conference is a great way to start. I hope that everyone will consider the benefits of attending the annual conference in September at Oglebay Resort in Wheeling, WV.

It has been my honor and pleasure to serve as your President of the West Virginia Public Health Association this past year and look I forward to advancing public health for generations to come.
