SoCo Management Group Expands Integrated Facility Support and Vendor Coordination

Broader service model gives multi-site operators one point of coordination across field activity, vendors, documentation, and ongoing facility needs

February 24, 2025

ELGIN, III. - SoCo Management Group announced an expanded facility-support model designed to help petroleum marketers, convenience retailers, and other multi-site operators coordinate field activity, service vendors, documentation, and recurring operational needs through a more centralized process.

The approach is intended for operators managing multiple locations and multiple service providers, where open work orders, inspections, follow-up items, and vendor communications can quickly become fragmented across departments and systems.

SoCo works as a coordination layer between customers, field-service partners, vendors, and internal stakeholders. The company helps organize requests, track outstanding items, confirm completion, and maintain documentation so customers have a clearer view of what is happening across their facilities.

The expanded model also allows customers to continue using their existing service providers while gaining additional oversight and accountability. SoCo can support individual projects or function as an ongoing extension of a customer's internal facilities and compliance teams.

The initiative reflects SoCo's broader strategy of combining industry experience, practical field knowledge, and structured operational support to reduce administrative burden and help customers manage distributed facility portfolios more consistently.

SoCo Management Group Expands Managed Compliance Services for Multi-Site Operators

Expanded support helps operators centralize compliance activity, documentation, and vendor coordination

May 12, 2025

ELGIN, III. - SoCo Management Group announced an expanded focus on managed compliance services for petroleum marketers, convenience retailers, and other multi-site facility operators seeking a more coordinated approach to regulatory and operational requirements.

The expanded service model is designed to help operators manage recurring compliance activity across multiple locations, including alarm and monitoring coordination, inspection and walkthrough support, notice-of-violation and return-to-compliance documentation, recordkeeping, vendor follow-up, and ongoing status reporting.

Rather than treating compliance as a series of disconnected tasks, SoCo works with customers to organize information, identify open items, coordinate responsible parties, and maintain a clearer view of what requires attention across a portfolio of facilities.

The company's approach combines industry experience with practical process management, giving customers a single point of coordination while allowing existing internal teams and service providers to remain part of the solution.

The expanded managed-services focus supports SoCo's broader mission of helping customers simplify facility operations, strengthen accountability, and make better use of the information already being generated across their sites.

SoCo Management Group Advances Data-Driven Approach to Facility Compliance and Operations

Company continues investing in better reporting, visibility, and actionable operational intelligence

October 20, 2025

ELGIN, III. - SoCo Management Group is continuing to expand its use of data, reporting, and technology-enabled workflows to help customers gain better visibility into compliance and facility operations across distributed site portfolios.

For many operators, critical information remains spread across monitoring systems, service records, inspection reports, spreadsheets, emails, and vendor portals. SoCo's approach focuses on bringing those inputs into more consistent workflows so teams can better identify exceptions, track open items, document corrective actions, and prioritize follow-up.

The effort complements SoCo's managed compliance and facility-support services by improving how information is organized and presented to customers. The goal is not simply to collect more data, but to make existing data easier to understand and more useful for day-to-day decisions.

As the needs of multi-site operators continue to become more complex, SoCo is focused on connecting field activity, compliance requirements, documentation, and operational reporting in a way that supports greater consistency and accountability.

This continued investment in data-driven service delivery positions SoCo to support customers as they modernize how they manage facilities, assets, vendors, and compliance programs.
