Marlton attorney Andrew J. Luca, of the law firm CKL Law Group LLP, has been selected as a Fellow of the Litigation Counsel of America. Luca is a co-founder of his firm and is past Vice President of the Burlington County Ethics Committee on Fee Disputes. A 1993 graduate of Rutgers University, Drew earned his Juris Doctor degree from Rutgers University-Camden in 2001 and his Master of Laws from Temple University in 2004. He represents both corporate and individual clients in state and federal court and has argued cases before the New Jersey Supreme Court and the state's Appellate Divisions. Mr. Luca regularly represents individual homeowners and other Consumer Fraud victims in their claims against organizations and licensed professionals.

The LCA is a trial lawyer honorary society composed of less than one-half of one percent of American lawyers. Fellowship in the LCA is highly selective and by invitation only. Fellows are selected based upon excellence and accomplishment in litigation, both at the trial and appellate levels, and superior ethical reputation. The LCA is aggressively diverse in its composition. Established as a trial and appellate lawyer honorary society reflecting the American bar in the twenty-first century, the LCA represents the best in law among its membership. The number of Fellowships has been kept at an exclusive limit by design, allowing qualifications, diversity and inclusion to align effectively with recognition of excellence in litigation across all segments of the bar. Fellows are generally at the partner or shareholder level or are independent practitioners with recognized experience and accomplishment. In addition, the LCA is dedicated to promoting superior advocacy, professionalism and ethical standards among its Fellows.

In addition to his practice of law, Drew is active with the American Cancer Society and is involved with local organizations designed to teach and protect consumers against improper business practices.
