

Benjamin J. Block

Sports writer/editor | Podcast Producer

914-629-3937 | Benjamin.blockj@gmail.com | LinkedIn

Portfolio snapshot

Writing Highlights:

My afternoon with boxing promoter Don King

An oral history of Mike and the Mad Dog

Interview with Tiger Woods

Amir Khan exclusive

Dwight 'Doc' Gooden profile

Everything else:

My website

WFAN Column

Block's Corner Newsletter

Block's Corner Podcast

Marketing / Copywriting

What former bosses, subjects and peers said about me...

➔ Mark Mason Retired Editor-in-chief, CBSNewYork.com @ CBS

I first met Ben when I was the subject of an interview he was conducting for VICE. We chatted for hours and, by the end of the interview, I offered him a job writing for CBSNewYork.com. He was that impressive! Ben is an excellent writer and idea generator. He collaborated with our editors but self-assigned his topics. He always delivered smart, engaging, timely articles and never missed a deadline. He's a problem-solver who takes initiative and understands industry trends and social media. Ben is also very personable and a pleasure to work with. I highly recommend him.

➔ Wes Cosgriff President at The Agile Group / former COO, Washington Kastles

As a writer for the Washington Kastles team, Ben showed his incredible writing ability, strong understanding of the sports industry, and willingness to work under tight deadlines. Ben was a pleasure to work with, and I strongly recommend him to anyone needing thoughtful, dedicated work.

➔ Steve Somers, WFAN on-air sports personality

The brightest of careers, already underway for you, in the mix as we say...ahead of the curve you are, Ben.

➔ Craig Muder, Director of Communications, National Baseball Hall of Fame

Great stuff Benjamin! Just what the doctor ordered!

➔ Sweeny Murti, New York Yankees Beat Reporter

Video reference