

Welcome to Crafty Tales! I'm excited to welcome your children to a fun, hands-on storytelling experience. Throughout the co-op year, we will explore a new book each week and engage in creative crafts to bring the stories to life. Some days, we'll act out our favorite scenes, while on others, we'll gather on the floor to share and discuss what we loved most about the stories. Please ensure your child wears clothes that can get a little messy on painting and glue days. My goal for this class is to foster a love for books and storytelling while enjoying the art of crafting.

Occasionally, I will provide a special food treat that ties into our story. If your child has any food allergies, please let me know in advance.

The class fee covers all necessary supplies, but I gratefully accept donations of extra basic supplies like glue, markers, construction paper, etc. Gift cards to Walmart, Amazon, and Publix are also appreciated. Your contributions help enhance our creative projects.

This class operates as a "parent-free zone" to encourage creativity without distraction. You are welcome to peek in through the door window anytime.

I regret that I won't be available for the open house, but I look forward to seeing everyone in August!

Blessings,

Mrs. Liana
