Dear friend

- Everybody knows that our community is growing, but what many people ignore is that unfortunately it is growing at a disadvantage. That is why we need to increase our representation in Congress: to send someone to Washington who keeps his feet firmly planted in our district.
- This is exactly what I intend to do: run for a congressional seat for district FL-7, which now has almost 1 million people. To be a voice for local citizens and small businesses, with special attention to women- and veteran-owned businesses. Provide the support necessary for them to be able to offer better jobs and better wages.
- On the same level of importance is the education of young people, which can/should be covered by the aid already approved in Washington for our local universities, colleges, and high schools. Included in this is teacher pay, which must be proactively addressed as a way to maintain our educational quality.
- We need more trade vocational school training centers.
- We need to work with community leaders and give them the tools necessary to provide service to the community.
- Unfortunately, being aware of our problems is not enough. We must move from awareness to real action: provide practical solutions that bring immediate relief to the issues that concern us all in this post-pandemic period.

I am counting on you, assuring you in advance that you can count on me.

Cordially
