Classical Hahnemannian Homeopathy is based on a set of clearly defined principles. The theory behind homeopathy is that a substance that causes a certain set of symptoms when tested on a healthy person can relieve the same set of symptoms in a sick person. Homeopaths are trained to select the one remedy from thousands available that most closely matches the total picture of your symptoms. This remedy is given in a specially prepared (potentized) form that can stimulate your body's own healing processes.

- At your initial consultation your homeopath will spend between (1 to 2 hours less for a child) finding out as much as possible about you (or your child), the symptoms and medical history.
- Your homeopath will carefully analyze the information given, and will select a remedy that in her best judgment matches the totality of symptoms. She will normally advise you of the remedy selection within 7 working days of your consultation. In the event that it should take longer, she will let you know. In acute situations the selection is much faster.
- If you wish, your homeopath will provide the remedy to you. If you prefer, she will advise you as to where you may obtain remedies.
- Your homeopath will provide instructions as to how to take the remedy.
- Your homeopath will assess the response to the remedy at a follow up consultation 3 to 6 weeks later. Your homeopath will be accessible daily for phone in times and by e-mail as needed.
- Based on the follow up assessment(s) your homeopath will recommend further homeopathic remedies and/or health enhancing lifestyle adjustments as needed.
- Treatment is always by mutual agreement and may be discontinued by either party.
- Your homeopath will maintain records of consultations and treatment, which you may view if you wish.

As homeopaths, we do not make any kind of diagnosis in conventional medical terms. You should be aware that the outcome and duration of homeopathic treatment vary by individual, and cannot be guaranteed.
