Mabuhay!

On behalf of the organizers of The Philippine Cocktail Fiesta, welcome to the best Fiesta in town!

This festival has been a long time coming, born from the passion of our bar community, eager to celebrate our thriving bar culture and share it with the world. The event is spearheaded by DrinkCollectiv.com, your drinking companion across Asia, and DBWY (Drinks Be With You), the community that brings bartenders and enthusiasts together through cocktails and camaraderie.

With new hotspots rising in Metro Manila and emerging hubs like Cagayan de Oro, Cebu, Davao, Dumaguete, Iloilo, La Union, Palawan, and Siargao, The Fiesta shines a light on the creativity, innovation, and talent that define Filipino bar culture. The goal is to elevate local bars on the international stage while building stronger community ties, collaboration, and knowledge-sharing within the bar and hospitality industry.

We call it a “Fiesta because, though Spanish in origin, it perfectly captures Filipino warmth, hospitality, and joy—a tradition of gathering, celebrating, and supporting one another. That’s exactly what this Cocktail Fiesta is about: community.

From November 17 to 23, nearly 100 venues across Metro Manila, and standout bars from across the Philippines, will join in. We’re also thrilled to welcome the wider Asian bar community, with a star-studded lineup of guest bartenders flying in from top bars in Taiwan, India, Macau, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Singapore, Malaysia, and China.

So buckle up, raise your glass, and enjoy your first-class pass to the Fiesta! Remember, sip, don’t slip. Cocktails are meant to be savored, not conquered. Pace yourself and drink responsibly.

Cheers!

Alabang

Muntinlupa, often called the “Emerald City of the Philippines,” earns its nickname from its lush green spaces and rapid urban development. In local culture, it’s affectionately known as “Taga-South” territory, with Alabang standing out as the laid-back enclave of coffee-loving “South people” who famously avoid Manila traffic at all costs. But that doesn’t mean the area sleeps early. Alabang boasts a lively dining and nightlife scene, with plenty of restaurants, cafés, and bars, from relaxed hangouts to late-night spots that stay open past midnight.

COCKTAIL BAR

Café Fleur

Helmed by celebrated Filipino chef Sau del Rosario, this restaurant brings a refined taste of Pampanga to Manila's south. After winning hearts in Angeles City and later in Poblacion, it now settles into a fresh new home in Alabang. The space captures the chef's Kapampangan roots with its warm, homey interiors and witty menu names. A must-try is the playful "Vuco Fye," Sau's cheeky twist on the beloved buko pie. The menu goes beyond Filipino favorites, featuring elegant European-inspired plates like duck confit, lamb shank tagine, and barramundi en papillote. Complementing the food is a well-curated selection of wines, cocktails, and specialty teas, making it the perfect spot to unwind over good food and thoughtful flavors.

Japonesa

This Japanese-Peruvian spot in Poblacion is from the same crew behind Alamat and West 32. People come here for the food like the spicy tuna on crispy rice, salmon with citrus and garlic, and steak stir-fry. But the bar is where things really start to sparkle. They have a weekly cocktail special, so there's always something new to try. Some of the must-tries are the Sakura, a light, floral drink with gin. The Watermelon Hai-Ball is fresh and fizzy, something easy to sip. They also serve Japanese iced tea and fruit-based juices if you're skipping alcohol.
