Russet Perry Receives 2023 Moms Demand Action Gun Sense Candidate Distinction

LEESBURG, VA – Russet Perry, a former Loudoun County prosecutor and CIA officer running in State Senate District 31, has been awarded the 2023 Moms Demand Action Gun Sense Candidate distinction. This distinction is an indication from Moms Demand Action that a candidate advocates for gun violence prevention and will govern with gun safety in mind.

“Gun violence is an issue that is personal to me, and of utmost importance to my campaign,” said Russet Perry. “As a prosecutor, I worked directly on issues surrounding gun violence in our communities. I became the person in the Commonwealth’s Attorney’s office who got the call if one of our Loudoun County schools received shooting threats. I have worked directly with law enforcement to teach red flag laws, and I have prosecuted offenders who perpetrated violence using a firearm. As a mom, every morning I make a point to be the one to drop my kids off at school, because after all the violence we have seen, I don’t know if I am going to see them again. That’s not a reality any of us should have to live with.”

“Russet Perry is exactly the person we need in Richmond fighting for common sense gun safety,” said State Senator Jennifer Boysko. “Her background as an attorney and her experience working directly with these issues makes her the strongest advocate for the issue of gun safety. I look forward to working with her on gun sense legislation in the Senate.”

Moms Demand Action is a leading organization nationwide advocating for common sense gun safety. They promote a culture of responsible gun ownership and advocate for measures to reduce gun violence in our communities.

Russet Perry worked for a decade in the Loudoun County Commonwealth’s Attorney’s office. Under both Republican and Democratic administrations, Russet not only worked on issues of gun violence, but successfully prosecuted all manner of charges, including domestic violence, child abuse, rape, and murder.
