

GHK-Cu Peptide Overview

This document is for informational purposes only and is based on currently available research. GHK-Cu is sold for research purposes only and is not intended for human consumption. This summary does not constitute medical advice.

Compound: GHK-Cu

Typical Vial Dosage: 10mg per vial

Reconstitution Volume: 3cc bacteriostatic water

Overview Based on Current Research

GHK-Cu (Copper Peptide) is a naturally occurring tripeptide that has been studied for its regenerative and reparative properties. Research suggests potential benefits in wound healing, skin repair, hair regrowth stimulation, anti-inflammatory activity, and collagen synthesis.

Suggested ChatGPT Prompt

“Please summarize current research on GHK-Cu, 10mg vial reconstituted with 3cc bac water. Goal: skin rejuvenation and inflammation control. What are best practices based on existing studies? Please ask any clarifying questions before generating recommendations.”