Block of the Month

Rachel's Tribute

Pam Buda's newest BOM quilt features Diamond Star blocks, and it celebrates the mid-nineteenth century when red and green quilts were the rage. Quilts of the era were often made with a muslin background and solid prints, but many were pieced using a variety of calicos. Pam designed a soft neutral print to echo the muslin background color, but with a classic feel. "You'll love the collection of red and green prints that blend perfectly, making the Diamond Star blocks shine!"

Through the 9-month program, quilters will make a Diamond Star block each month, along with Nine Patches, Half Square Triangles, and Chevron border units. While the Diamond Star may look difficult to make, it isn't!

The BOM highlights the fictional story of Rachel, who creates this very special quilt in celebration of her parents' 20th anniversary. Rachel's parents were married in 1835. Working as a school teacher during the week, she has secretly been saving money from her afternoon tutoring to buy fabric. Rachel has chosen to surprise her parents with a red and green quilt, which her mother loves, and is so popular. Quilters are invited to join the fun as they stitch a replica of Rachel's Tribute to her loving parents.

Ask the Longarm Quilter!

Let's talk about having a longarm quilter do your quilting for you. Longarmers have spent large amounts of money setting up their business by purchasing their machine, a good supply of quilting threads and designs. When a long arm quilter does the quilting for you, there may be questions you have, especially if it's the first time you've used someone else to do your quilting. Let's check out possible questions you might have.

PRICING – This is usually the first question asked. Many longarm quilters in the area use standard pricing. Make sure you ask the price per square inch. Also let the quilter know whether you want an edge to edge overall design or you want your quilt custom quilted. Many applique quilts need to be custom quilted so make sure to ask about custom pricing. It is much higher than an overall design.

BATTING – Most quilters carry a large selection of batting. You may wish to provide your own. That's great but please make sure it's a good, high quality batting. There's nothing worse than the quilter pulling on the batting as she is quilting and it tears due to low quality or thin density! Ask the quilter which company she purchases her batting from!

COLORS THREAD – Most longarm quilters know what will look best for an overall design or whether multiple colors will be required for your quilt. Multiple colors often will be used on custom quilts. There are many thread types. Ask your quilter to explain which thread weight she will use and what the result will be.

EDGE TO EDGE DESIGN CHOICES – There are literally hundreds and even thousands of designs. An experienced longarm quilter will always give you good choices. Many times the customer will leave it up to the quilter to pick the design. Trust your quilter! The pattern design, fabric choices and colors all play into the quilting design. Quilters are very experienced in this area.

BACKING – Here's one of the most important things to know! Please make your backing EIGHT INCHES WIDER and EIGHT INCHES LONGER than the top! There's nothing worse than taking a quilt, laying it out on the back and finding there's only an inch to spare! It just doesn't work on a longarm frame. We need 4 inches on each side, top and bottom when the back is sewn. Wide backs are often a good choice for your backing.

Before taking your quilt to a quilter, please make sure all threads are clipped on the front and back of your top. Threads can get caught by the hopping foot and create issues! After clipping your threads, please press your top to make sure all seams are nice and flat. Then press your backing fabric and make sure that any seams on the backing fabric are pressed open.

Let your quilter know if you'd like her to trim the quilt after the quilting is done. Many of us do it at no charge.

We do have cards in the shop from quilters we recommend. Their work has been proven to be beautiful and professional.

You've delivered your quilt. Now sit back and relax (or begin another masterpiece). Make sure to ask your quilter for their lead time. Many quilters are very busy and it may be months before you see your quilt again.
