

DISINFECTING POLICY

According to the Pennsylvania Bedding and Upholstery Law, all items sold by REPLAY Pop Up Consignment that are multi-layered or filled MUST be disinfected and re-tagged prior to being offered for sale.

Failure to comply with this law may result in fines, so we take it very seriously.

If an item or part of an item you are consigning has or had on it, at some point in time, a bedding tag attached to it (the long ones that read “UNDER PENALTY OF LAW THIS TAG NOT TO BE REMOVED EXCEPT BY CONSUMER”), we must disinfect and re-tag it with one of our yellow re-sale tags before it can be offered for sale.

These are some of the Items included under the Pennsylvania Bedding and Upholstery Law. Upholstered furniture like gliders and kid-sized stuffed chairs, chair pads for items like strollers, high chairs, bouncy seats, Exersaucers®, walkers, swings, car seats, booster seats and rocking chairs, pads for changing tables, play pens, Pack ‘n Plays® and activity sets, mattresses, pillows, nursing pillows, padded baby carriers and slings and any item that has multiple layers to it or contains some form of concealed filling material are all included and will need to be sprayed.

Sheets and blankets that are single layered will not need to be sprayed.

We are spraying to protect against mold, mildew, bacteria, fungus, bed bugs, dust mites, lice, fleas, and the eggs of such pests. These are things that can hide deep within multi-layered items that may not easily be laundered. If any of these are present in or on an item when it arrives at the sale site, the spraying process is designed to kill them on contact.

Because of this law REPLAY Pop Up Consignment DOES NOT ACCEPT Bedding Sets, Bumper Pads, Quilted Bedspreads and Sleeping Bags.

These items are just too large for us to unpackage, spread out flat to spray, dry thoroughly and repackage in the short period of time we have set aside for drop-off.

All items considered to be multi-layered must be presented to the spray station upon arrival for drop-off. These items will be gathered in a central location sprayed with one of two state approved disinfectant sprays; Sterifab® or Microban® X-580 with Tracer. Once the items are sprayed, dried, and recorded in our log, a yellow bedding and upholstery tag bearing our registration and permit numbers will be affixed to the item so that it can be placed on the sales floor. Failure to comply with these measures may result in fines if we are inspected and found to be out of compliance. Fines due to noncompliance will be passed along to the consignor as it will be the consignor's responsibility to get these items to the spraying area at drop off.

Any item or part of an item that has or had one of those long bedding tags attached to it qualifies under this law and will need to be sprayed. If any of your items has a concealed layer of filling inside of it then it will need to be sprayed. If you are unsure, it is better to ask a REPLAY team member about it rather than risk having a fine passed along to you.

If you do not want your items to be sprayed, then we CAN NOT sell your items. We will not make any exceptions, or we risk being fined for non-compliance.

What items need to be sprayed?

Any item that has or had one of these tags attached to it:

If an item or part of an item you are consigning has or had on it, at some point in time, a bedding tag attached to, we must disinfect and re-tag it with one of our yellow re-sale tags before it can be offered for sale.
