

Color and Chat November Newsletter

Important Dates:

Week of November 2nd: Random Thoughts Day

We'll share silly and creative thoughts while doodling cozy sweaters and warm mugs, a fun way to spark imagination and connect.

Week of November 9th: World Kindness Day

This week is all about kindness! We'll celebrate the power of kindness toward ourselves and others.

Week of November 16th: National Space Day

We'll look at space art: planets, stars, rockets, and galaxies as we dream big and explore our imaginations.

Week of November 23rd: Thankful Week 🍁

In the spirit of Thanksgiving, we'll share what we're grateful for and create our own Thanksgiving meal.

Let's
Color and Chat

Color & Chat is my main job, and I am so grateful to every family who continues to attend month after month and year after year, and to all of our new friends who join along the way. Your support means more than you know.

Thank you for letting me do what I love every single day, creating, chatting, and building confidence with amazing kids.

I am truly blessed and so thankful for ALL of you! 🍁 ✨

With the holidays approaching, I'd like to give a quick schedule update!

My family is spread out across the U.S., and with mid-week holidays this year, I'll be taking a few trips to see them. All class schedules are updated, so if a class is not on the schedule, you won't be charged. If your student needs to miss a class, please let me know in advance. Pausing your week could impact your spot.

Reach out, and I'll work with you so you don't lose it.
