Thanks James! I just had a quick chat with the Director there and he let me know that they are putting up a new note to their Minister in the hopes that they can get a decision to open the College in the Spring since the deadlines in their old note no longer apply. Hopefully PMO will reach over so that the decision gets made.

Hi Chaitanya,

Apparently IRCC has asked PMO about the status of the Consultants file. Given that we just talked on Friday, I assume the status of the Note is still the same in that it's in the queue to the PM. I've been asked to confirm status with you. Also, do you know what are the next steps for moving forward with the OIC? Have you notified PCO-OIC? If so, who? I can probably follow-up with them on process for the coming into force of the legislation (unless you know).

Hi Melissa and Chaitanya, hope you are well!

Just wondering if you would have time in the next few days to chat. Could serve as a touch base on where things are at re-implementation of the new regime for immigration consultants, and importantly, we could have another chat regarding the offence provisions in the College Act (this was a subject of a discussion we had earlier this year).

If you are willing, you could let me know your availability and we can set something up. I am copying my A/Director, Cynthia Ralickas, who may also join the call. She is currently replacing Katarina Stephenson who has moved on to other responsibilities in our branch.

Thanks!

Normally they would have a Word version, yes. If they don't, we request from DOJ.

The understanding is that if they (MOG) do send the Word version, we can use it for our purposes. When other depts send us the Word versions (which is unlikely), we should be wary.

Hi Line,

An OiC was signed last week and the following announcement is planned for Friday:

- Min. Mendicino (TBC) (IRCC) announces the coming into force of the College of Immigration & Citizenship Act. Ottawa, ON

If this is going to happen on Friday, I think we should try to see comms materials from IRCC by Tuesday or Wednesday.

I had a call with the lead team for this file a couple weeks ago and want to make sure we are on top of this issue rather than leaving it to the last minute.

Betsie, if they have approved in the OICS the one that does not have the latest updates (the one you have created), could you incorporate into the one that will go on the web.

Hi Alexis, welcome to your new job!

Sorry this is a feature of your first two weeks. Yes, I understand there was an exchange between counsel on the issue. As far as I am aware, the Gazette (Part II) is published everyday two weeks in December, and it was last published last week. I have a call at noon on the question of registration to see if there is any flexibility (eg special issue) and will get back to you right away.

What we do know is that the GIC approval process is complete and the Act will come into force and that from that point, the current regulator will have 6 months to apply to the Minister to be continued on a date to be specified by your Minister (pending his approval).

I will give you a call after my conversation at noon to discuss way forward. Could you please let me know what time would be convenient?

Thanks very much for reaching out.

Good morning Amy,

I am the new Director of Social Policy and Programs at IRCC (week two on the job!). I understand that our teams were partners on the Machinery of Government components throughout the policy development process leading towards a new regulatory regime for immigration consultants. More recently, I believe we worked together with respect to the Order in Council to bring the College of Immigration and Citizenship Consultants into force.

You may already be aware, but there appears to have been a misunderstanding of exactly when the College Act will be in force. Our initial understanding was that the Act was in force upon GG signature of the OIC, which was on November 20th. We have since been informed that this will only be so on a date of official registration, which we have heard is December 9th.

s.21(1)(b)

As such, I have been asked to touch base with you to explore how this issue can be mitigated given the news release that was issued by IRCC on November 26 (pasted below). Would it be possible to have the OIC registered as soon as possible rather than waiting till December 9?

Happy to discuss further if helpful.

Many thanks in advance for your support on this issue.

All the best,

Alexis

Citing "Ghost Consultants," Immigration Consultants Praise Creation of College of Immigration Consultants

By Mansoor Tanweer

NEW CANADIAN MEDIA

Immigration consultants are hailing the coming into force of legislation that would create a more robust regulatory body that would prevent unlicensed consultants from scamming new immigrants.

Minister of Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC), Marco Mendicino, announced the College of Immigration and Citizenship Consultants Act is coming into force. The act was given royal assent in June of 2019, but the new regulatory body, the College of Immigration and Citizenship Consultants (CICC) will be open in 2021 and will provide additional protections to potential newcomers to Canada. Belluz loves this idea.

"If you invest your savings to move to Canada, and you have a ghost consultant, which we call them, first it's the reputation of Canada 1/8 getting ruined 3/8. Second of all, you are affecting people's lives. That's malpractice," said Solange Belluz, who is a senior partner at Open to Canada Immigration Services.

"Ghost consultants," unlicensed and often predatory immigration consultants, are thorns in the side of the legitimate consultants as well as the government. In 2015, one such ghost consultant, Richmond B.C. man Xun Wang, was given a seven-year sentence for what authorities called the biggest immigration fraud in Canadian history.

Alfredo Arrojado of Winnipeg was another well-known case of a ghost consultant. He was charged with three offences in 2017 related to collecting $91,000 worth of consultancy fees without a license.

In April of 2019, the Globe and Mail published a sweeping four-month investigation probing 45 "consultants" in Ontario, B.C., Alberta and Quebec. They amassed scores of complaints against them and are alleged to have collectively defrauded as many as 2,300 people.

Diane Campos, a consultant with Equality Immigration Services, estimates that 20 percent of her clients are ones who were victims of ghost consultants. Concern for her client's well being is top of mind for Campos, so just like Belluz, she welcomes the creation of the college. "I've seen first hand how many people get taken advantage of. It's sad," Campos told NCM.

"I try to run my practice ethically and I feel like a lot of 1/8 ghost 3/8 consultants ruin it for us." Victims are often asked to pay exorbitant fees that financially cripple them. To make matters worse, faux-consultants often place their marks under immigration programs they are unqualified for. For example, someone being made to apply under the humanitarian category despite not meeting the requirements. As a legitimate, licensed consultant, Campos is required to "know what programs a client would fall under. Because that's my job as a consultant." If a ghost consultant misinforms the client, there is a real danger of being deported, on top of losing their life savings.

The text of the act, which empowers the creation of the actual regulatory college, establish and administer "qualification standards, standards of practice and continuing education requirements for licensees," ensure compliance with codes of "professional conduct," and undertake "public awareness activities."

There already is a regulatory body in existence designed to crack down on fraudulent consultants. The Immigration Consultants of Canada Regulatory Council (ICCRC) was launched in 2011 to do exactly that. All immigration consultants who are not lawyers are required to register with the ICCRC in order to practice their profession.

In a September 2019 press release, the ICCRC said that they have voted to transition over to becoming the CICC. "ICCRC is ready to take on this enhanced role and help protect vulnerable Canadian and immigrants from fraud," said John Burke, chair of the ICCRC in 2019. The enhanced role Burke is alluding to includes additional powers to enter the premises of a potential ghost consultant, gathering of information and compelling witnesses to appear and testify before a discipline committee.

Belluz, who in her career has helped to create similar regulatory colleges, believes that this new body is better equipped to handle enforcement. "The college would be better because it is a body that is established in legislation and has the government authority to investigate professional misconduct," Belluz said. "The enforcement element would be stronger."

NCM reached out to the IRCC for further information. No response was provided by deadline.
