3. Types of tasks or other ways in which volunteers contribute
4. Check-in and out procedures for youth
5. Record keeping
6. Safety

What’s the difference between volunteer orientation and volunteer training? Generally, your volunteer orientation is an overview of Safe Passage Youth Foundation mission and expectations and understanding. An orientation is the first step to training volunteers in nonprofit participation. Volunteer orientation is just one part of a productive volunteer training program. What is our Safe Passage Youth “Literacy Mission”

Literacy is important to individuals and to avoid youth recruitment into violence.

- Access to information that allows youth to orient themselves in the world.
- Develop strong communication skills include reading with understanding.
- Conveying ideas in writing, speaking so that others can understand, listening actively, and observing critically.
- Build a capacity of empowerment to express ideas and opinions with confidence that they will be heard and taken into account.

- Increase their capacity to solve problems and make decisions that increase independence, self-reliance, and the ability to take responsibility.
- Live a fuller and more participatory life.

Literacy is important to our local Conejo Valley Communities.

- It is the foundational skill upon which personal problems can be solved and upon which personal responsibility of community can be fostered. When issues can be more readily solved at a personal level social issues begin to resolve at a social level. With more individuals empowered by the ability to read and write to take responsibility for their own lives and decisions the onus which is placed on police and social agencies is lessened.
- Literacy is the key to education and learning and education and learning are the key to social and economic development. In other words, emerging from this basic foundation is an individual’s capacity to develop skills for living and working and hence contribute more fully to community health and development.

Importance of Volunteers:

Our program has grown from serving a handful of students in improving literacy skills to now serving many children from micro communities. Volunteers have played a significant role in each of our milestones by contributing time, skills, enthusiasm and passion in all that they do. Volunteers have served in a variety of capacities in growing our organization. They have served to organize and implement a number of events, acted as mentors, been public advocates within the community and of course acted as tutors to the increasing student population. The work of our organization has been greatly extended through volunteer service into areas that, otherwise, could not be considered because of limited resources. We are grateful for all that our volunteers do and look forward to continued growth and relationship in the coming years.
