Small Is The New Big.

We're virtual and flexible

Cecil was virtual when being virtual was new. And as a virtual design agency, we can grow to accommodate projects of any size or stay small enough to work within your needs. Which is really just another way of saying, you won't have to pay for layers of infrastructure that you don't need.

We've been there.

Cecil has been building brands of every size since 2003. He's done it for a wide range of companies, small and large across nearly every sector.

Out of SIGHT!

What we believe.

Every client deserves the kind of individual attention that can only be found with a small firm. We also believe that every brand — no matter how new or well-established — deserves to be treated like it is the only one that matters. Which means we'll make your communications fit your style. Not ours.

We've been there.

Strategically, Creative.

Creativity without purpose is nothing more than a pretty idea. CLD adds action to creativity and the result is design that not only looks good, but also makes people respond.

Don't go at it ALONE!

You need a champion.

You need someone to help you keep everything consistent, keep everything going forward, and in the same direction. Since we are experts in all facets of brand expression, we can help to ensure that everything you use to communicate your brand looks great and works as hard as it can.

You need a creative partner.

You need a collaborative partner focused on making your brand, business, service, product, or event look as special as it deserves to. A partner that brings that unique combination of experience and talent to bear on your specific project, with your objectives in mind.

You're on radar.

Your customers. Your stakeholders. The world is waiting for you to make something happen. That's why you need it all done within scope. So we'll meet your objectives on time and on budget. Because if a solution doesn't match your business goals, it's not going to do anyone any good.
