Proposal-Ready Speaker Description

Dr. Lavinia B. Masters delivers survivor-informed keynotes, experiential workshops and professional learning that connect personal resilience with institutional responsibility. As the namesake of The Lavinia Masters Act, she brings a distinctive perspective on DNA justice, evidence systems, and the lived impact of delayed accountability. Her teaching also addresses emotional validation, healthy boundaries, empathetic leadership and faith-informed restoration. Sessions are tailored for conferences, government and forensic agencies, universities, healthcare systems, corporations, faith groups and community organizations.

Sample Event Learning Outcomes

- Recognize the human impact of trauma and institutional responses without making assumptions about individual survivors.
- Apply respectful communication, survivor choice and practical empathy in professional or interpersonal settings.
- Identify one audience-appropriate action that strengthens safety, accountability, resilience or effective support.

Organizer Intake

- Event audience, purpose and expected attendance
- Desired topic and any specific learning outcomes
- Preferred format, duration, and faith-based or secular framing
- Accessibility, safeguarding and trauma-informed participation needs
- Date, location, delivery mode and audiovisual setup
- Honorarium, travel, materials, recording and reuse permissions

Publication and development review

- Approve final public titles, punctuation and trademark notation; ™ does not certify registration.
- Verify which programs are ready to book, piloting, or concept-only.
- Finalize the Hearts of Kings™ module on supporting trauma-affected partners while addressing men's own trauma and accountability.
- Verify biographies and historical/legislative facts for specific event audiences.
- Insert approved headshot, official logos, contact links and booking information.
- Confirm slide decks, handouts, participant safety protocols, permission to record and licensing terms.

Content note: survivor-focused sessions use choice-based participation; public promotional copy should not promise therapeutic treatment, guaranteed healing or specific legal outcomes.
