Please join us on Zoom for SEPTA's February General Meeting. A Parent Networking Meeting will immediately follow the General Meeting.

Visual supports refer to a form of communication that uses pictures rather than words. This talk will provide examples of visual supports that have demonstrated efficacy in teaching children with a variety of different needs and abilities and can be made using materials found at home.

Christina Layton is a Clinical Research Coordinator at the Seaver Autism Center where she manages the administrative, recruitment, and data-collection aspects of various studies that seek to better understand the causes of autism spectrum disorder and improve treatment options.

Monday, February 8th at 7:00 pm
