Show and Tell

This section of the meeting is open to all members to enable them to exhibit any interesting items that they have made, brought, found or otherwise acquired.

Monthly Competition

The competition for April is Wood turning, the competition for May is Pyrography.

The open competition is for any other items. One entry only in each section per month and once an item has been entered it cannot be entered again later. Entrants will be invited to discuss their entry detail allowing members to gain from your experiences.

President's Report

Hello everyone, as I write this report; we have just finished a very busy period of Seymour and Easter and for those of us going to U-turn, that is only a week away.

Well, it was two fantastic shows with excellent sales for those who put items in, I would say to members who have not yet put items up for sale, please do, let the public decide if they are worth it.

I want to say a huge thankyou to all of those members who have helped out at the two shows, without your help we cannot participate in these events.

The raffle sales were excellent and a big shout out to the guys selling the raffle tickets, without you ticket sales would drop dramatically. Just on that point, a friendly reminder for members to get their tickets back to Jeff, the members contributions have not been great, so be warned it could mean a return to the $50 ticket levy for every member.

At the moment, there are a few changes to the workshop; Mal and David are trying to work out how to make a bit more room, so have some patience.

As I have stated, it has been a busy period, but we still have Craft Alive and Sheep and Wool shows coming up, I would really like to see members who have not been involved putting their hand up to come along put some hours in, learn how our shows operate and participate in some productivity for the club. It is very rewarding to see these events and listen to the feedback from the public. In talking about feedback, one thing that has come out of Seymour and Easter is that our prices are too low, so have a think about that when you are putting a price on your item, also please make the items end in a 5 or 0, i.e.: $35 or $40, makes life so much easier for the salespeople.

That's all for now, keep turning.

Steve Brereton

President

Secretary's Report

Hello All,

We have just completed two of our major activities, namely Seymour Alternative Farming Expo and our own Easter Exhibition. Both were very successful and I thank all members who were involved in either or both.

Seymour - We had about 15 members at this event either partially or for the whole 3 days. The 1st day (Friday) seemed extremely quiet with sales down substantially to other years, that being said; our Raffle Ticket sellers did well. Fortunately, the Saturday proved much better and the Sunday was just a little down. Overall, we made enough from the Raffle and Toy Sales to cover the cost of our marquee hire and that's all we were hoping for.

EASTER - We weren't sure how we would go this year especially just 2 weeks after Seymour. The final figures were excellent with numbers through the door about the same as recent years and members sales also very good. Again, big thanks to our Raffle ticket sellers who brought in over $1,300.00. It was amazing and lovely to hear so many compliments about our work from new and returning customers, some from Melbourne and other places who come back to us each year.

I have added a few photos and Heather probably has more:

Again, thank you to all who helped at the Bunnings Easter activity night (Steve Brereton, Arthur Curnick, John MacDonald, Geoff Maxwell and Gary King). Also, to those who helped making our club give away items.

We have another Bunnings event as above for their Mother's Day event on Thursday 8th May.

Our next bigger event is Craft Alive in June followed by the Sheep & Wool Show in mid-July. If these events are as popular as previous years, I suggest everyone get very busy.

Cheers and stay safe,

John Phillips,
Secretary

Carving out a new lifestyle in retirement

David Chapman

WHEN Jeff Willey joined the Bendigo Woodturners, he had no idea how to carve something out of timber.

"I had been in the military for 23 years and was finishing off a business degree but I really wanted to do something with wood," he said.

He applied for a wood-working class at TAFE at the same time his wife saw an ad for the Bendigo Woodturners offering to teach new members.

He was accepted into both and has been churning out woodcraft ever since.

A selection of his products were on sale - along with other items from club members - at the Bendigo Woodturners Easter Exhibition.

Among them was a giant redgum bowl which took him eight hours to carve.

"A lady in Ballarat said she had an old Elm burr that I could have," Mr Willey said.

"It was a bit rotten in the middle so I gave her $50 for it. I thought I could make that back easily.

"It wasn't until I was flattening the bottom that I found out it wasn't elm but redgum."

Mr Willey used an Arbotech industrial wood-carver on a grinder to carve the bowl.

"I masked up, put the overalls on and an apron ... it was a really dry bit of timber so there were bits of the wood flying up and in my ears and my grey hair went red."

Mr Willey applied four coats of polyurethane varnish to finish it off and it was for sale for $380.

"It's all a hobby. I've paid for equipment and trips to Tasmania and New Zealand out of my hobby," he said.

Bendigo Woodturners president Steve Brereton said club members had pulled apart old wine barrels, used railway sleepers, re-purposed Blackwood kitchens and any other timber they could find.

There were rifle bolt-action pens, cutting boards, clocks, candle holders, coat hangers and an endless array of other items on sale.

The club has about 80 members - a third of whom are women - and are always on the lookout for new recruits.

"We're looking for middle-aged members who want to join the club life," Mr Brereton said, noting that one of their members is around 90 years of age.

And as Mr Willey proves, you don't have to have seen a lathe before to be a member.

"In retirement, this helps you fill in the time and you get to mix with other people," Mr Willey said.

"We often get people putting in requests for us to make something. I made a samurai sword stand for the RSL last Christmas."
